GOV. BROUGH SHOT

KILLED, IN NEW
ARKANSAS RIOT

Colonel Commanding Troops in the Elaine Disturbances Also Fired Upon, but Neither He Nor State's Executive Are Hit.

4 NEGROES KILLED;
SOLDIERS WOUNDED

Outbreak Believed to Have Been Due to Shooting From Ambush of Special Railroad Officer and Deputy Sheriff.

By the Associated Press.
ELAINA, Ark., Oct. 2.—Gov. C. M. Brough and Co. Isaac Jenks, commanding the troops here, were fired upon, but neither was hit. O. L. Johnson, a white real estate dealer at Helena, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded; Dr. D. A. Johnson, a negro druggist at Helena, and his three brothers were all killed; Corporal Luther Barles, Co. H, Fourth Infantry, had his lower jaw shot off and probably will die, and Corporal Earl B. Gay, Headquarters Company, Fourth Infantry, was shot in the chest, in the race trouble here shortly before noon.

By the Associated Press.
HELENA, Ark., Oct. 2.—The arrival this morning at Elaine of 500 United States troops, accompanied by Gov. Brough, somewhat eased the tension of the situation brought about by yesterday's race riot, in which three white men were killed, two wounded and an unknown number of negroes killed and wounded. While the fighting, which had gone on intermittently during the day, practically ceased at dark, deputies patrolled the streets of Elaine, prepared for a renewal of the attack from negroes said to be hiding in the canebrakes about the town. At one time during the night a noise leader in Elaine telephoned here that a further outbreak was imminent and 100 men were held in readiness to respond by special train to the scene of the riot. The situation here, however, that the situation there remained unchanged. The arrival this morning of troops, which was expected to prevent a recurrence of the rioting.

Charged With Murder.
The arrest of 20 alleged instigators of the rioting, which followed the shooting from ambush of a special railroad officer and a deputy sheriff, is also believed to have removed a great deal of the source of the trouble. The 20 prisoners included O. S. Bratton, white, and several negro women. Bratton, charged with murder in connection with the death of W. A. Adkins, special officer, the first victim of the disorders, is said to be a son of U. S. Senator Little Rock attorney and former Postmaster, and also to be a member of the law firm here of Casey & Bratton.

While there was no indication of the spread of the disorders to Helena, every precaution was taken by authorities here last night to keep the situation under control. Every store in the city was closed and windows and children were kept indoors. Every block in the business and residential sections was patrolled by groups of citizens, while at the court house on hand for emergency calls was a large number of men. Rifles and ammunition were requisitioned from Memphis.

No Fear of Spread.
No unusualness, however, is felt over conditions here. White and negro ministers, following a conference, declared the Helena negro population was in no way implicated in the disorders at Hope, Sear and Elaine yesterday. The entire negro population of the city kept to their homes last night.

It has been established today that none of the men killed and wounded yesterday was the victim of an accident as was then believed. Clinton Lee was shot in the back at long distance. James A. Tappan, who died late yesterday from wounds received earlier in the day, was shot from a "trench" while crossing a field in company with two Helena citizens. Ira Proctor, whose condition was reported somewhat improved today, was shot from ambush. The negro who killed Tappan, according to Herbert Thompson, a discharged army officer, was killed within a few minutes after he had fired the shot. The number of negroes killed and wounded in the rioting could not be determined.

The race trouble, as far as can be learned here, started with an attack Tuesday evening upon Adkins, a special railroad officer, Charles Pratt, a deputy sheriff, and a negro

FRENCH CHAMBER
RATIFIES GERMAN
TREATY, 372 TO 53

Deputies Unanimously Approve Franco-American and Franco-British Conventions, 501 Votes Being Cast.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 2.—The Chamber of Deputies today ratified the German peace treaty by a vote of 372 to 53. The Franco-American and Franco-British treaties were unanimously ratified.

A total of 501 votes was cast for the two treaties.

HOW 874 BANKERS VOTED IN POLL ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Only 40 Ballots Distributed by the Post-Dispatch Were Marked Unconditionally Against It.
A poll of the delegates attending the Wednesday morning session of the American Bankers' association by the Post-Dispatch showed an overwhelming majority in favor of the principle of a league of nations. The poll, which, of course, is not to be taken in any sense as an official expression by the association but only as the individual opinion of those who were present at that particular session, representing what was said to be one-fourth of the conference membership, was made by means of the following ballot, a total of 1050 of which, representing approximately the number in attendance, was distributed:

For the league as now constituted.
For the league with such interpretations as will not require any other peace conference with Germany.
For the league with amendments even though they will make another conference necessary.
Against the league.
When the ballots were collected, 874 were marked and 175 were not. Those voting for the league as now constituted numbered 442. Three hundred and eighty expressed themselves as for it with such interpretations as will not require another peace conference with Germany; 84 were for outright amendments, even though another conference is necessary, and 40 were against it.

CLERK FATALLY SHOT IDENTIFIES ROBBERS AN HOUR BEFORE DYING

Otto C. Greiner Declares George (One-Eyed) Brown Is One of Men Who Held Him Up Tuesday Night.

Otto C. Greiner, 42 years old, 2121 Sidney street, deputy clerk in the Court of Criminal Correction and a well known local Republican, died at noon today at the city hospital from the bullet wound inflicted at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday by one of two highwaymen who robbed him of four cases of whiskey in the garage behind his home. Details of the robbery and shooting were told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

An hour before his death Greiner identified George (One-Eyed) Brown, 27 years old, 917 North Fifteenth street, as one of the robbers. He could not identify a second suspect who had been arrested, and when asked if Brown was the one who had shot him he replied faintly that he did not know and lapsed into a daze.

Brown was arrested last week when 35 members of the Walters' Club, 705 1/2 Pine street, told the police that a man known to them as "One-Eyed" Brown had held them up. He was released when the waiters at police headquarters said that he was not the "One-Eyed" Brown they had referred to. Brown's only comment when asked what he had to say of the identification by Greiner was that he was at the Gayety Theater the night of the holdup.

INDUSTRY MUST BE DEMOCRATIZED,
PALMER DECLARES

Full Co-operation Must Be New Basis, U. S. Attorney-General Tells Meeting of Bankers.

CONVENTION CLOSING
WITH SESSIONS TODAY

P. P. Claxton, National Commissioner of Education on Program for Address During Afternoon Session.

A Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General of the United States, in his address before the American Bankers' association in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater today, declared that industry must be democratized, on a basis of full co-operation, and that greater production at less cost must be brought about.

Today is the last day of the convention's general sessions. The meetings of sections ended last evening. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, noted economist, was also on the morning's program, and P. P. Claxton, national Commissioner of Education, is on the afternoon program.

Prof. Fisher's topic was "Stabilizing the Dollar in Purchasing Power," and that announced for Commissioner Claxton is "Education to the New Conditions in the United States."

Attorney-General Palmer, in his address, ascribed unrest, in large part, to the presence of natives of other countries, to think that there is justification for repetition in this country, of the methods of force which have been used to change the form of government in European countries.

Violence Will "Get Nowhere."
Methods of violence, he said, will "get nowhere" in the United States, and no officer of the Government will be "embarrassed or affected, much less frightened, by any attempts, organized or unorganized, by lawless elements to terrorize and stampede the Government into doing something contrary to the spirit of our free institutions."

Reform proposals, he said, must take the course prescribed by the Constitution, before they can be incorporated in law.

No change will be hastened by the use of force," said the Attorney-General. "Those who cannot or will not live the life of Americans under our institutions, and are unwilling to abide by the methods which we have established for the improvement of those institutions from time to time, should go back to the countries from which they came. Every power of the Government will be used to compel those who remain here to comply with the laws and to obey our laws and with that respect for our institutions which are a part of the creed of real Americans."

The speaker said that industrial peace was needed as much as world peace, and that there must be an intelligent effort to reduce the forces of industry. Both money and labor, he said, are needed to make the wheels move. "The day of autocracy in government is gone; there must be no autocracy in industry left."

"A fair and equitable distribution of the profits realized upon the products of industry, as well as a system of co-operative control and management of the terms and conditions under which money and labor yield those products, must be devised. Neither money nor labor should be permitted to dictate to or control the other, but both should participate in the fruits of their common service, in just proportion to their contributions."

Co-operation by Necessity.
The imperative necessity is a fuller co-operation to bring about greater production at less cost, without sacrifice of the earnings of either money or labor and with a just division of those earnings. Such co-operation must look to other things than mere increase in the wages of labor or the dividends of invested money. It must look to increased business, better working conditions, greater opportunity and reward for individual initiative.

"There should be no fear in the mind of either employer or employee of a democratized industry on such a basis of co-operation, having in view a greater success in industrial effort. It is the middle ground which, once taken and securely held, will avoid the obvious dangers of both extremes."

"Co-operative control in industry is not the first step toward either nationalization or class control. It is the recognition of the very principle which has made our Government not alone great but responsible to popular will in a way that protects the interests of all. There is danger in refusing to act upon this principle, now that the time is here, not merely to 'do something,'

VOTING TO BEGIN THIS AFTERNOON ON FALL AMENDMENTS

Democrats Say They Will Beat Them; No Index to Final Treaty Vote, Say Republicans.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—With the calling up of the German peace treaty in the Senate at 2 o'clock today the 36 amendments proposed by Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, will be taken up under an agreement reached late yesterday for a final vote before adjournment.

This will mark the first vote on amendments to the treaty taken in the Senate. The Fall amendments would eliminate American representation on the various commissions to be established by the treaty.

Disposition of the treaty will be hastened by action of the Fall amendments and, with a growing desire among Senators to put short the discussion in the Senate, final vote on the pact is expected in some quarters within a few weeks.

Democratic leaders feel confident the amendments will be voted down, while Republicans declare the vote cannot be taken as an index of the final stand of Senators on the ratification of the treaty with its league of nations covenant.

SUPREME COURT POST UNLIKELY TO GO TO A ST. LOUIS MAN

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 2.—Although Gov. Gardner today refused to discuss for publication the filling of the vacancy on the Missouri Supreme Court caused by the death of Judge Bond, it is known that in all probability the appointment will not go to a St. Louis man.

The Governor told friends that John I. Williamson of Kansas City, who was endorsed by the Kansas City Bar Association for the place held by Judge Parls in case he was appointed to the Federal bench in St. Louis, will be had not reached a decision.

Otto F. Karbe of St. Louis urged the appointment of former Circuit Judge Sam Rosenfeld of St. Louis, but didn't have much luck.

He said that he and his friends had not believed it would be right to choose a man who could not add strength to the Democratic ticket next year. St. Louis has no chance of the court since 1885.

If, through any change in the situation, such as the appointment of Judge Parls to the Federal bench, the Governor should have two places on the Supreme bench to fill, the reception room between lines of American soldiers at present arms, and along a hall decorated with the flags of Belgium, the United States and the other allies in the war. Under the canopy of flags in the reception room the program called for the formal address of welcome by the Vice President of the United States and King Albert's reply to the greeting of the American nation.

Others in the official welcoming party at the pier were Robert Lansing, Secretary of State; Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War; Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the Army; and Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State. Officials of the State Department announced that it was planned to keep up the royal visitors' incognito during the first 24 hours of their stay here. The visitors are assigned to occupy the suite at the Waldorf-Astoria that was reserved for Gen. Pershing, while he was the guest of the city.

The official greeting of the city will take place tomorrow morning. At the city hall Mayor Hyman will extend the freedom of the city to the royal couple, and the King will make a brief address in reply.

Issues Message to People.
Upon his arrival here today King Albert issued the following message to the American people:

"At the moment of setting foot on American soil, the King of the Belgians desires to express to the people of the United States the great pleasure with which the Queen and himself are coming to the shores at the invitation of President Wilson."

The King brings to this nation of friends the testimony of the profound sentiment and gratitude of his countrymen for the powerful aid, moral and material, which America gave them in the course of the war. The name of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium will live eternally in the memory of the Belgians."

Rejoices at Visit.
The King rejoices at the prospect of visiting the cities whose hearts fought with the cities of Belgium, and whose continual sacrifices knew no measure. He happily will be able to meet the eminent citizens who, animated by the highest thoughts, placed themselves at the head of organizations for relieving the sufferings of the war.

"The American people, their splendid army and their courageous navy, powerfully served a great ideal."

BELGIAN ROYALTY
LAND IN U. S. WITH NOISY WELCOME

New York Harbor Forts Fire Salutes to King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold.

OFFICIAL GREETING
BY VICE PRESIDENT

Visitors Propose to, Remain Incognito During First 24 Hours of Stay in New York.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—King Albert of the Belgians, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold, who come to America to express personally their gratitude for the aid extended by a generous nation to their martyred country, received a noisy welcome in New York when aroused at dawn by the firing of salutes as the transport George Washington steamed past the outer harbor fortifications.

The royal party landed at Hoboken at 12:07 p. m. The George Washington, formerly a North German Lloyd liner, arrived off the Fire Island Lightship at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She anchored at sunset three miles east of the Ambrose Lightship. A flotilla of 12 destroyers escorted the George Washington up the bay to the pier at Hoboken. As the ship came up the harbor salutes of 21 guns were fired from the coastal fortifications.

Belgian Flag at Mast.
In response to the George Washington broke out at her masthead the flag of the Belgian royal family, and the National Banner.

It was arranged for King Albert to leave the vessel and proceed to the reception room between lines of American soldiers at present arms, and along a hall decorated with the flags of Belgium, the United States and the other allies in the war. Under the canopy of flags in the reception room the program called for the formal address of welcome by the Vice President of the United States and King Albert's reply to the greeting of the American nation.

Jerks Tablecloth and Oil Lamp to Floor as Family Dines.
A playful dog set fire to the home of John P. Sanders, 1410A South Seventh street, while the family was at dinner at 7 p. m. yesterday.

NEUROLOGIST CALLED TO SEE PRESIDENT WILSON

Chief Executive Not So Well Today, but It Is Stated Condition Is Not Considered Alarming.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Despite a fairly good night's rest, President Wilson was not so well this morning, and Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, has called in consultation Dr. F. X. Dercum, a neurologist, of Philadelphia.

Admiral Grayson issued the following bulletin at 11 a. m.: "The President had a fairly good night, but his condition is not at all good this morning."

The calling in of the nerve specialist was decided upon by Dr. Grayson yesterday, and Dr. Dercum is expected at the White House today.

The President's condition is not considered alarming, it was explained at the White House, and the decision to call in Dr. Dercum was made as a precautionary measure and to relieve the pressure on Dr. Grayson, who has been with the President almost continuously since he was taken ill a week ago while on a speaking tour for the league of nations.

Extremely Restless.
The President was described as extremely restless. Dr. Grayson insists that he remain quiet and is trying to divert his mind from work and executive matters in which Mr. Wilson is desirous of taking a hand. The chief executive, however, has been permitted to sign a few letters and attend to some few other routine matters.

Dr. Grayson was in consultation with Rear Admiral E. R. Stitt, head of the naval medical school, and Dr. Dennis of the naval dispensary, but they have not seen the President.

Eye Specialist Called.
Dr. Grayson expects Dr. George De Schweinitz, an eye specialist of Philadelphia, to visit the President this week.

The President did not take kindly to the idea of calling a specialist, but finally acquiesced on Dr. Grayson's insistence that he would have to have some assistance.

By JOHN E. WRAY,
Sporing Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
REDLAND FIELD, CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 2.—The sun was shining and the thermometer registered around 80 degrees when the Cincinnati Reds, winners of the National League pennant, and the Chicago White Sox, champions of the American League, took the field this afternoon and started practice preliminary to the second game of their series for world supremacy on the baseball diamond.

By virtue of Cincinnati's overwhelming defeat of the American League yesterday, the odds on the series had veered from 8 to 5 on White Sox to even money or slight odds in favor of the Reds.

Claude Williams for Chicago and Harry Sallee of the Cincinnati team, were expected to be nominated to start on the hurling hill this afternoon. Both are left-handers.

The winning of yesterday's game was a one-man feat on the part of Cincinnati. The railroad officers were crowded all of last night by local baseball enthusiasts eager to get accommodations to Chicago to witness the three games to be played there Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

That yesterday's game upset the predictions was indicated by the fluctuation of the betting odds, even money on the Reds finding few takers and here and there odds being delivered by those who believed the Sox will ultimately prove the victor.

The series will almost certainly break all records relative to the amount of money taken in at the gate. The first day's receipts were more than $27,000 in excess of the high record of the first day's receipts of a world's series game made when the Philadelphia Athletics played at New York in 1911. At that time $77,353 was taken in at the gate, while yesterday $98,778 was the gross returns, and this did not include the war tax.

GARY WON'T
ARBITRATE;
HE TELLS SENATORS

"I Will Not," His Reply to Question at Inquiry, "Will You Confer With Any Representative of Organized Labor to Help Settle This Strike?"

"HAVE REFUSED TO MEET OUTSIDERS"

Doesn't Indorse "What Labor Unions Call Collective Bargaining;" Objects to Any but Quiet Investigation in Steel District.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Charges of union leaders that the United States Steel Corporation employed many foreigners in order to prevent the unionizing of its men were denied today by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation's board, when he resumed his testimony before the Senate committee investigating the steel strike.

"Was the question of employing foreigners, who possibly had feelings against this country, decided by the board?" asked Chairman Kenyon. "No," said the witness. "The question was never raised."

"But you think foreigners are responsible largely for precipitating this strike?"

"Yes, but if we had known there was a substantial number of the kind of foreigners who are resorting to violence and who, I believe, are under the leadership of outsiders, we wouldn't have employed them."

Importation of Foreigners.
Senator Phillips, Republican, Colorado, asked it was possible before the war to secure necessary labor without employing foreigners, and Gary replied in the negative, adding:

"At no time would we employ a man whom we believed distasteful to this country, even if it would have been necessary to close down our manufacturing."

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, asked if the corporation before the war had imported foreigners under contract. Gary said it had not but that before the contract law became effective it was possible, but not probable, that foreigners had been imported.

Senator Kenyon asked, "who is going to speak for the men; how can individuals without unions present their views?"

Gary replied that, as has been frequently done, individuals or committees of workmen could present grievances to foremen, superintendents, managers or even higher officials.

Three Classes of Strikers.
Gary analyzed steel strikers as belonging to three classes.

"First, there are the Americans," he said, "then a large number of foreign-born workers, and, finally, a small minority of foreigners not over 10 per cent of the total, who are actually engaged in promoting the strike."

"Don't you think this committee ought to make its own investigation as to that in the field?" asked Senator McKellar.

per cent of the men were organized, you would not confer with their representatives."

"I haven't said so," Judge Gary replied. "That question has not come up. We shall not do anything to injure the open shops."

"Let's settle this point right here," Senator Walsh broke in. "Will you confer with any representative of organized labor today to help settle this strike?"

"I will not," Judge Gary returned.

"Asked if he had any suggestion for settlement of the strike, Judge Gary said if peace were maintained, the law upheld and individuals left free, 'the employees would settle it themselves.'"

Senator Walsh and Gary engaged in a spirited colloquy over the latter's refusal to see the labor leaders.

"If you were convinced that 50 per cent of your men were organized and represented would you confer with them?" asked Senator Walsh. "No," said Gary. "I'm sorry if I differ with you, or with others."

Suffering Families.

"I'm sorry for hundreds of thousands of suffering families," Senator Walsh retorted.

Gary protested that his position had not been fairly explained, and added with careful choice of words: "We put ourselves squarely upon the issue that this is a question of the open or closed shop. Now as to what we must decide, from time to time, depending upon the facts presented."

"At the present time, the union leaders have brought about this strike, which is no more nor less than an attempt of a minority to secure control of the interests of the large majority including not only the employers, but the employees."

"That's what you say; they say they represent a majority," Senator Walsh interrupted. "Is there any reason why we should not leave that to arbitration?"

Won't Answer. "Yes or No."

Judge Gary protested that he had not been allowed to complete his statement, but Senator Walsh broke in: "I want to know, yes or no, whether you will see any representatives of organized labor. Please answer that, yes or no."

"With all due respect," said Gary, with flushed face, "I cannot answer yes or no."

"If the minority could succeed in securing control," said the witness, "that would bring about the closed shop. Therefore, at this particular time, the circumstances are different than ever existed before in this country. I doubt if you realize the danger of the minority securing control."

"I appreciate that," Senator Walsh rejoined, "but I also appreciate the danger of employers refusing to see their workmen."

"I haven't," Judge Gary protested vigorously. "I have refused only to meet outsiders who are trying to organize the steel industry."

"If the union leaders should disclaim any intention to establish what you call the closed shop, would you discuss the situation with them now?" asked Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico.

No Arbitration.

"If they should make such a disclaimer, in good faith even, it would not satisfy me," Judge Gary said, "because I know that leaders who promised that would be shortly displaced, and their positions taken over by men who would continue progress toward the closed shop."

AMERICAN GENERAL HOLDS UP RIFLES SENT TO RUSSIA

Graves Retaliates for Hostile Acts of Cossack Chiefs; Says He Will Suppress Paper.

By the Associated Press.

OMSK, Sept. 25.—Major-General William S. Graves, commander of American forces in Siberia, in retaliation for scurrilous articles published in a Viadivostok newspaper and hostile acts of Cossack chiefs in the Far East, has held up shipment of 14,000 rifles which recently arrived at Viadivostok from America consigned to the all-Russian Government at Omsk.

Giving notice of his action by telegraph through Maj. Slaughter, his representative here, Gen. Graves declared he will personally cause the arrest of the offending editor and the suppression of the newspaper. "The Omsk Rodini—unless the Omsk Government does so," he asserts further that unless the activity of the Cossack chiefs is controlled he will recommend that America refuse to render further assistance to Russia. Gen. Graves says he will retain the arms until advised as to what action the Omsk Government proposes to take.

In replying, the Omsk Government says that its view of the subject constitutes a diplomatic and not a military problem, which should be approached through recognized diplomatic channels, and that the Government therefore awaits a communication from the State Department at Washington.

can't discuss the situation from the view point which members of this committee take. I can't talk about arbitration or compromise at this time."

Representatives of labor have said that the open shop is not an issue here," Senator Jones said. "The public is vitally interested. If your policy now is to refuse to accept and compromise, we might as well quit now."

"We interpret public sentiment in this country differently," said the witness. "I believe the attitude of the public here is to see that absolute peace be maintained, and every interest and man protected."

"If that is done public sentiment will enforce decency and justice. The strongest force we have is an enlightened public interest."

Corporation Control.

Asked for his views regarding legislation on the general question of corporation control, the witness suggested a Federal commission to charter and regulate corporations, with the commission's actions subject to final review by the Federal court.

"I recognize," Gary said, "that the power of concentrated capital necessarily involves the power to do more or less harm. I recognize the fact, personally, that concentrated capital has the advantage over the single individual if concentrated capital is in the hands of dishonest or unfair men. Therefore, I think concentrated capital should be under control and supervision against wrong."

"I think at the same time, that capital is subjected to supervision and control that concentrated labor also should be subjected to the control of the Government and of the law."

Gary, waving his hand at Mr. Gompers and other labor leaders, said he had no personal opposition to them and would meet them in next week's labor conference.

Senator Walsh asked if Gary would answer the question of labor both have "made mistakes," and when Gary answered affirmatively, Senator Walsh asked: "Then isn't that a reason for arbitration?"

"That depends on the circumstances," Gary replied, amid laughter of the audience.

Gary gave way for an hour yesterday to several employees of the corporation's mills, who told the committee they knew of no reason for the strike. All agreed that the men who voluntarily responded to the strike calls were mostly foreigners, and one of them, John J. Martin, a Youngstown machinist, attacked the leaders of the national steel workers' committee.

"I think John Fitzpatrick (chairman of the workers' committee), with W. Z. Foster (secretary of the committee), as an able assistant, are heading a band of buccanniers, who will overthrow this Government if they are not stopped," said Martin, who explained that he himself formerly was a union man. They were engaged, he said, in "scuttling the American Federation of Labor."

Martin testified that the steel employees at Youngstown, "Americans and foreigners alike," had been "terrorized by threats to burn houses and kill children." Gary also said in the course of his testimony, but the company had much "hearsay evidence" that such threats had been made against men who would not join in the strike.

for labor, not merely to be "good" labor, but to be exactly just to labor, and not just to labor only, but to every factor necessary to bring successful production in industry."

The Attorney-General was applauded in his declaration that foreign-born advocates of violence should return to the country sin which they formed such ideas. "There ought to be enough kinds of government in the world to suit all sorts of people," he remarked.

After reading the prepared part of his address, Palmer spoke extemporaneously for a few minutes. "We went into the war perfectly satisfied with our form of government, and convinced that it was a success," he said. "We went in not for territory, money or power, but in self-defense. It was a war for peace. I am a Quaker, and my wife is a Quaker, but I approved of this war, and the men of service are in my family and my wife's family were all in uniform. But the sacrifices of our men and the devotion of our women are futile if out of them does not come a sure and quick peace."

A statement issued by the company said that all departments of all the plants in this and other cities are working at practically full capacity. Strike leaders, however, make directly opposite assertions.

trusty, who had gone by automobile to Elaine to arrest a suspected boot-

The officers stopped at Hoop Spur, near Elaine, to repair a tire puncture and were fired upon by unidentified persons. Adkins fell dead and Deputy Pratt was wounded. The negro escaped and called the Sheriff's office here by phone and advised officials of the affair.

A posse was immediately sent to Elaine, where it was fired upon. It is said, by negroes. The fight, which continued all day yesterday, followed. Meanwhile the possemen sent appeals for reinforcements, which were soon forthcoming.

Some women and children of Elaine and vicinity were brought to Helena on a special train for safety. It is reported, an engineer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad arrived in Helena tonight, said he pulled a steel gondola loaded with women and children out of Elaine late yesterday and that his train was fired upon by negroes from trees along the track.

The returning possemen brought numerous stories and rumors and suspicions, through all of which ran the belief that the rioting was due to propaganda distributed among the negroes by white men. It was clearly indicated, they said, there was an organization of negroes antagonistic to the white residents in the southern part of the county. Negroes in that section, it is related, have asserted they will not pick the present cotton crop unless paid their own price, and numbers of them are reported to have refused to work for the white farmers for any wage. A white woman of the section said today she had passed a negro church Sunday and that all the negroes carried revolvers.

It is stated on good authority that negroes of the vicinity of Elaine have been holding secret meetings at night and that unidentified white men have been circulating literature among them.

Elaine has a population of 400 and is supported chiefly by the Gerard B. Lambert Lumber Co. The town has rail, day telegraph and telephone communication with Helena. The ratio of population in that section of the county is said to be seven negroes to three white persons.

Mich., at 3 A. M.—Massachusetts Craft Down at Leland, Ill.

Three of the 10 contestants and the pilot balloon in the national championship race, that started last evening from Meramec Park, officially reported having landed today.

No. 1, Capt. Elmer G. Marchschuetz of St. Louis, pilot; Lieut. Charles S. Powell, aid, came to earth at 12:45 a. m., 16 miles northwest of Chicago, after having exhausted all ballast owing to a leak in the envelope.

No. 3, William F. Assmann of St. Louis, pilot; Joseph M. O'Reilly, aid, landed at 3:15 a. m. in Hubbard's Woods, Winnetka, Ill., on the edge of Lake Michigan. The balloon was destroyed in landing.

No. 10, the "America II," piloted by Lieut. Joseph S. Batt, and his aid, Jo Torrey II, representing the Aero Club of Massachusetts, came down at 1 a. m., three miles northeast of Chicago, out of ballast.

The pilot balloon, Lieut. James T. Neely, pilot; Lieut. James B. Jordan, aid, landed at 1 a. m., one mile west of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, in a 40-mile gale.

In a telegram dropped for Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, commanding officer of the Missouri Aeronautical Reserve Corps, Capt. John S. McKibben, pilot of No. 6, representing Murphysboro, Ill., stated he had crossed Lake Michigan, and passed over Grand Rapids, Mich., at 3 a. m. McKibben was 95 minutes in crossing the lake.

Another balloon heard from was No. 2, Capt. Paul J. McCulloch, pilot, which passed over Petersburg, Ill., at 9:12 o'clock last night. Seven of the entrants, sailing northward, passed over Alton, Ill., at 7:30 p. m.

The day was ideal for a start, and at an altitude of about 500 feet the balloons encountered a steady current from the South that took them out of sight of the starting point in about 15 minutes. A crowd of several thousand cheered the contestants as they left the ground in the following order:

Pilot balloon, Lieut. James T. Neely, pilot; Lieut. James B. Jordan, aid.

Missouri Aeronautical Reserve Corps entry, Capt. Elmer G. Marchschuetz, pilot; Lieut. Charles S. Powell, aid.

"Kansas City II," Capt. H. E. Honeywell, pilot; Capt. Roy Donaldson, aid.

Aero Club of Massachusetts entry, Lieut. Joseph S. Batt, pilot; Jo Torrey II, aid.

The pilot balloon got away promptly at 5:55 o'clock, and the others followed at five-minute intervals, the last one, America II, representing the Aero Club of Massachusetts, ascending at 6:45. No. 3, the entry of William F. Assmann, pilot, was leaving badly and expended most of its ballast in leaving the ground.

JOHNSON TRIES TO DISPROVE WILSON'S POINTS ON LEAGUE

Senator Denies in San Francisco Speeches That Covenant Will Mean Disarmament.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson in two addresses here took arguments in behalf of the league of nations presented to two San Francisco audiences by President Wilson a fortnight ago, and sought to disprove the points in the presidential arguments. He spoke at a luncheon and a mass meeting of citizens here last night.

Senator Johnson was often interrupted in his addresses by applause, particularly when he attacked the six votes given Great Britain against one vote for the United States; when he declared that the league of nations will not bring disarmament, but already has led to the administration seeking to pass an army program calling for a standing army in this country of 579,000 men, costing substantially a billion dollars a year, and when he declared that the fight himself and other Senators were waging was to prevent "British or Asiatic" control of America's policies.

In his first address at a luncheon to more than 1600 San Francisco business men, the California Senator made references to the administration military program.

"I will tell you a secret about this," he said. "And that is they will not get any such army at all."

He declared the award to Japan of Shantung with the United States a party to the deal, was the first time America had ever broken its pledged word or promise.

"CONSCIENCE CLEAR" SAYS MAN ACCUSED OF STARTING WAR

Count von Berchtold Quoted as Denying Entrance to Austrian Declaration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Oct. 2.—"Count Leopold von Berchtold, formerly Austrian Foreign Minister, 'the man who made the war,' according to the Red Book published in Vienna recently, is staying in Switzerland," a Daily News correspondent writes.

The Austrian Red Book gives the impression that Count Berchtold obtained the signature of Emperor Francis Joseph to the declaration of war on Serbia by fraud. He presented a report to the Emperor that hostilities already had been opened by Serbians firing on Austro-Hungarian troops.

In the declaration of war he induced the Emperor to sign was a sentence: "Serbians have already attacked a detachment of an Austro-Hungarian army." After the document was signed Count Berchtold cut out reference to hostilities, and in explaining this to the Emperor wrote that the attack had not been confirmed and added: "I have taken it upon myself to eliminate that reference to the attack."

The correspondent writes: "There was, in fact, a report that such an attack had occurred," said Count von Berchtold, "but I cannot now remember its source. In any case there was no reason to doubt it. It was denied later and I had the reference to it stricken out. It was a matter of no moment and I do not understand why so much has been said about it."

"I do not know why I have been held up as a sort of modern Machiavelli. It is impossible to fix the responsibility for the war on any particular person. It was the result of a variety of circumstances and conditions into which Europe had drifted."

MORE PRODUCTION URGED BY PALMER TO LOWER PRICES

Tells Chamber of Commerce Public Also Can Relieve Situation by Cutting Down Demands.

Attorney-General Palmer, to whom will be intrusted the machinery that Congress is momentarily expected to set up for the repression of living costs and the punishment of those who profiteer, told members of the Chamber of Commerce, at luncheon today at Hotel Statler, that the public at large could relieve the situation in two ways:

1. Back up every effort at increased production everywhere.

2. Help lessen the demand. "This is just as important as increasing the supply," he said. "If we could produce more in America and demand less, by exactly the amount that we produced more and demanded less, prices would go down and you would not be hurt by prices going down because what you would buy would be going down with what you sell."

"Starvation the Penalty."
He said the penalty of failure to follow these corrective measures would be "starvation walking in the streets of our great cities the coming winter." He added: "That is no exaggeration of the conditions into which we may enter."

Referring to the complaint that labor, by demanding shorter hours, is tending to curtail production, he said: "Americans can produce more in mill and factory, upon farms and in warehouses than any people on earth, and whether their hours be shorter or longer they will produce because they are an industrious people."

Turning to the profiteer, he declared that he believed that 99 per cent of merchants, wholesale and retail, were taking only a fair profit, "all conditions considered," and that it was as much to the interest of the fair dealers as to the public to see that the "one man who goes wrong shall be compelled to go straight."

Replies to Criticism.
He replied to the criticism of those who declare that without a licensing system, the penalty of $5,000 or two years' imprisonment, which Congress is expected to impose for profiteering, cannot be enforced.

"My answer is," he said, "that we propose to ask you, the people in business, to enforce it yourselves so as to avoid the public scorn which will come to you as a class if you do not drive out every man who charges an unjust and unreasonable profit."

He said that the plan of publishing fair prices daily would be protective in that it informed the housewife what she should pay and warned the dealers of the prices they must charge to escape the odium of public indignation.

Palmer declared that the Department of Justice was interpreting the law against hoarding so as not to stop legitimate storage, but to prevent storage in excess of reasonable requirements for a reasonable length of time.

GRAND JURY NOW SITTING TO TAKE UP DRY LAW CASES

U. S. District Attorney Says as Much Time Will Be Given as Necessary to Stop Violations.

United States District Attorney Hensley today said that one of the most important matters to be submitted to the grand jury which went into session yesterday will be the evidence against "the more flagrant violators" of the wartime prohibition act in St. Louis.

"I was amazed to learn the extent of the illegal traffic in liquor in St. Louis," he said. "Something must be done to stop it. The grand jury will be in session here about 10 days, and if necessary the greater part of that time will be consumed in considering liquor law violation cases. I believe the indictment and the vigorous prosecution of some of the bolder violators would do much to stop the practice of selling intoxicants."

The District Attorney said he would accompany Attorney-General Palmer from St. Louis to Kansas City this afternoon, so as to have the opportunity of a long conference in the train. The Attorney-General in a recent opinion said the wartime prohibition act was still in effect and violators should be prosecuted.

Judge Dyer, instructing the grand jury yesterday afternoon, urged it to investigate the activities of labor leaders with a view to prosecutions under the Clayton conspiracy act or the Sherman anti-trust act in each of which the penalty for violation is two years in the penitentiary, a $5000 fine, or both.

TWO WOMEN ADMITTED TO BAR WORKED DAYS, STUDIED NIGHTS

Both Gained Liking for Legal Profession Through Association With Lawyers.

Miss Nellie E. Allen, 4217A Holly avenue, and Miss Bertha Jay Bremer of St. Louis County, who yesterday were admitted to the practice of law in United States District Court by Judge Dyer, who waived their examination, both became lawyers by night study in St. Louis University.

Miss Allen, during the day, was employed in the law office of William Maffitt Bates. Miss Bremer was secretary for one of the offices of the William Jessop & Son corporation at 714 North Second street. Miss Allen said that her liking for the profession, gained through association with its practitioners, impelled her to take up its study. Miss Bremer said that she had been interested in legal questions "ever since I can remember."

They were introduced to the Court by one of their instructors, former Circuit Judge Fred L. Engle.

Last Chance to Get Grapes.
Fourth street produce merchants say the grape season will be over in a few days and advise all St. Louis housekeepers who want grapes for jelly, preserves or any purpose to avail themselves of this last opportunity, especially as grapes are now at their best, and also will be offered at probably lowest price of the season.—Adv.

Borealis Causes Wire Trouble.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights, was visible over a wide territory last night and seriously impeded wide communication for several hours.

According to wire chiefs of the telegraph companies, the aurora was prevalent from New York to Omaha. The most serious wire trouble, however, occurred in Minnesota and other Northwest states.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO REPORTED NEAR DEATH

Speeding Roadster Causes Another Woman to Fall Against Curb—Finally Is Wrecked.

An automobile roadster, traveling at high speed through the streets today at 7 a. m., struck and probably fatally injured one woman, caused another to fall and strike her head on the pavement in getting out of its path, and eventually came to a stop, a wreck against the curb at Jefferson and Sullivan avenues. It was occupied by two negroes.

Traveling east in Cass avenue, the roadster struck Mrs. Martha Springfield, 55 years old, 2924 Cass avenue, just west of Jefferson avenue, and hurled her about 35 feet.

It continued east to Twenty-fifth street and turned north. In rounding a corner to turn west in Mulbarby street, the machine narrowly missed another woman who dodged it and fell.

Mrs. Springfield's injuries were given at the city hospital as a possible fracture of the skull, fractured right arm, lacerations of the scalp and face and internal injuries.

Mrs. Annie Jones, 35 years old, 1719 Missouri avenue, suffered concussion of the brain when struck at 7:30 a. m. by the fender of the automobile of Harry Cohen, 43, 4107 De Tonty street, a dry goods merchant, at Lafayette and Missouri avenues. He was arrested and told the police that he did not know how the accident occurred, that he was driving slowly and that he did not see the woman come into the path of the machine.

Joseph Novak, 5 years old, 1310 North Eleventh street, suffered internal injuries, scalp wounds and body bruises at 5 p. m. yesterday when run over by an automobile driven by Mrs. Anna D. Horchert, 30 years old, 3134 South Compton avenue, in front of his home. He was carrying an armful of kindling wood. Mrs. Horchert was charged with careless driving. She told policemen the boy stepped from the curb directly in the path of the machine.

BODIES OF MEN DRESSED AS ARMY FLIERS FOUND ON BEACH

By the Associated Press.
NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 2.—The bodies of two men dressed in American army uniforms and with insignia of the aviation corps in their pockets, found buried in the beach of Bay of Los Angeles, about 300 miles South of San Diego, are believed to be the bodies of Lieut. Frederick B. Waterhouse and Cecil H. Connelly, according to a report made to military authorities today by Joe Allen Richards of Chicago, upon his arrival from Guaymas.

Lieuts. Waterhouse and Connelly disappeared while on border patrol duty between Yuma, Ariz., and San Diego. According to Richards, the boys were found by himself and William Rose, both Americans, when they landed on the bay of Los Angeles Sept. 23 to get water, leaving the steamer Navari for this purpose.

The men wore coveralls over their uniforms and in their pockets were insignia of the aviation corps and jewelry which they took as a possible means of identification. Richards said the Mexican authorities at Santa Rosalia took the jewelry from them.

Lieuts. Waterhouse and Connelly left Yuma, Ariz., for their border patrol flight to San Diego, Aug. 20, and were scheduled to arrive at their destination that night, but never were seen again.

U. R. CLAIM AGENTS JOIN UNION; 7 FIRED

President of Carment's Association Says Clerks in General Offices Also Want Cards.

Seven claim agents of the United Railways complained today to John P. O'Connor, secretary of the street car men's union, that they were discharged yesterday by Charles B. Hardin, chief claim agent, for joining the union. H. M. Nelson, president of the union, said he would take up the case at once and request General Manager Perkins to reinstate the men.

The discharged men told a Post-Dispatch reporter they joined the union because they did not share in the 45 per cent increase in wages awarded the union employees recently by the Public Service Commission, and that as soon as Hardin heard of it, he called them into his office and gave them the alternative of renouncing their affiliation with the union or being dismissed. They refused to quit the union.

Nelson said the 10 claim agents of the company and several hundred clerks also, including those in the general offices, had recently asked permission to join the union. The claim agents were taken in and the request of the clerks is now under consideration.

If the clerks are taken in, Nelson

PRINTERS' STRIKE AND LOCKOUT IN NEW YORK CONTINUED

Employers Say Only Members of Union in American Federation
Will Be Employed.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Ten thousand members of local printing trades unions employed in 250 local plants, which publish virtually all the trade journals and magazines issued here and a large percentage of the books, are still out of work today following a simultaneous "lock-out" and "strike" yesterday. This action follows the refusal of the employers to grant a 44-hour week, and a weekly increase of $14 in all wage scales.

The most important development was the strike of 400 compositors in support of the striking printers and in defiance of the International Typographical Union, which with the other international bodies, has denounced the strike and "out-lawed" the striking pressmen.

The employers issued orders that their plants were to remain closed until they can be reopened with forces composed exclusively of members of the International Union. The employers said that 250 men already had deserted the local unions for the International.

NEGRO ATTACKS WHITE WOMAN IN RIOT DISTRICT AT OMAHA

Crime Causes Authorities to Take Precautions Against Repetition of Sunday's Disorder.

By the Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 2.—One negro suspect was under arrest today in connection with the attack on Mrs. H. G. Wisner, white, yesterday afternoon. Military authorities refused to say where the negro was confined or the extent of the evidence against him.

The crime, one in a series of 31 similar crimes since June 1, occurred within a few blocks of army headquarters, where a machine gun is mounted. News of the attack was withheld in the afternoon papers at the request of Major-General Leonard Wood, who is actively in command of the situation here since the relinquishment of control of the city by acting Mayor W. G. Ure. News of the crime was published, following the conference, until all statements were substantiated.

"BUFFALO" JONES, BIG GAME
HUNTER, DIES OF JUNGLE FEVER

Famous Cowboy Had Been Game Warden at Yellowstone Park and Founded a Town in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 2.—Charles Jones, known throughout America as "Buffalo" Jones, famous cowboy and big game hunter and friend of the late Theodore Roosevelt, died here last night as a result of jungle fever, contracted during his last trip to Africa in 1914. Death occurred at the home of his daughter, where Jones had been living for the last two years.

"Buffalo" Jones became famous when he organized a band of cowboys in 1911 for an expedition to Africa to rope big game. He was five years game warden at Yellowstone National Park, having been appointed by President Roosevelt.

While there he built up a big herd of Buffalo. Jones also won fame when he crossed the buffalo with domestic cattle and produced a hybrid animal known as the catalo. During his illness he completed a book telling of his expeditions in Africa which is now in the hands of publishers in London.

Jones was born in Bloomington, Ill., in 1844.

WOMAN AND BOARDER SETTLE DISPUTE OVER PROPERTY DEED

Sign Statement That He Is Under No Financial Obligations as Result of Transaction.

Mrs. Frances Valin of 8107 Pennsylvania avenue and the Rev. Ben F. Adams, a street car conductor, who boards at her home, have signed a joint statement that Adams is under no financial obligations to Mrs.

Valin and that all their differences have been settled.

Mrs. Valin last Monday went to the Recorder of Deeds' office and alleged that Adams had obtained a deed to her home on an agreement to pay her $1200, but had recorded the deed without paying her the money. She took the deed from a desk in the office, tore it up and tried to swallow it; that portion containing her signature.

Adams said he bought the home for his wife, who arrived in St. Louis yesterday from their former home at Willitsville, Ill.

STOLEN AUTO PARTS IDENTIFIED

Wheels and Tires Found on Chassis of Two Other Cars.
Four automobile wheels and tires found by policemen when they arrested Lee Turner, accused of working on a stolen automobile with the aid of a stolen electric light in a garage at 2741 Locust street last Friday, were identified yesterday by Samuel Hatupin of Clayton.

Hatupin's machine was stolen from in front of 602 North Grand avenue July 21 and no trace of the auto had been found until he called at Police Headquarters to look at accessories found in the garage. On the strength of the finding of the wheels, detectives said they would apply for an information against Turner, charging the theft of the unrecovered auto. The wheels were attached to a chassis and body which apparently were from two other automobiles, but which have not as yet been identified.

MEN WHO THREW EGGS AT REED UNIDENTIFIED

Senator's Hat and Coat Spattered in Attack at Ardmore, Ok.

By the Associated Press.

ARDMORE, Ok., Oct. 2.—No official action has been taken with regard to investigating the circumstance which resulted last night in preventing Senator James Reed of Missouri from delivering an address in Convention Hall against the league of nations. During the demonstration about one dozen eggs were thrown at the Senator and others on the stage and one revolver shot was fired in the hall by a person as yet unidentified. Senator Reed's coat and hat were spattered by the broken eggs. The incident occurred in the full glare of electric lights after the hall had been in darkness 15 minutes, somebody outside having cut the wires with an ax.

Efforts today are being made to identify the persons who threw the eggs and the man who fired the shot. While it is not believed that any local officials will take up the matter, some citizens have expressed the intention to communicate with Gov. Robertson and Attorney-General Freeling at Oklahoma City with a view to having an investigation and if possible, prosecution of the disturbers.

Before he left for Tulsa, Ok., Senator Reed dictated a statement in which he said:

"My compliments to the decent people of Ardmore. My contempt for the thugs who denied these people the privilege of this assemblage under the flag and Constitution of the United States.

"Govern Ourselves First.
"If the friends of the league of nations imagine that the character of the argument employed will win friends for their cause, I believe they have mistaken the temper of the American people. I am very sure they mistook the temper of the people of Ardmore. So far as I am concerned the incident is closed, but I desire to remark that the occurrence may serve to illustrate the fact that probably we had better learn to govern ourselves before we take charge of the rest of the world and undertake to run it."

Hundreds of men and women who were present at the meeting, many of them stating that they disagreed with Senator Reed's views, shook hands with him and expressed deep regret that the incident had happened.

TWO BOYS TAKEN IN STOLEN AUTO; TWO OTHERS ESCAPE

Former Say They Went Riding, Unaware of Theft, and Are Turned Over to Parents.

Scott Battles, 12 years old, 1247 Delaware avenue, and Gus Sansone, 10, 4019 Page boulevard, were taken in custody by a policeman, and two other boys fled at Spanish Lake yesterday afternoon when the four were found to have gone there in a new automobile for a picnic.

The machine was identified as the property of Oscar Stringfellow, 1269 Greenville place, who had reported it stolen from Spring avenue and Page boulevard earlier in the afternoon.

The boys who were taken said they knew nothing of the theft. They were on their way home from school, they said, when two other boys, whose names they gave, drove up in the machine and asked them to take a ride. The boys were turned over to their parents and search was begun for the two who escaped.

LIMIT ON SUGAR PRICES

Some Grocers Are Selling Only Two Pounds to Customer.

Another shortage of sugar in St. Louis has caused some grocers to limit sales to customers to one and two pounds, and the price to go as high as 12½ cents a pound, which is 1½ cents more than the government has stated as a fair price.

Brokers seem not to agree on the causes of the shortage. Some brokers say that the capacity of the refineries to produce was reached several months ago. Others declare that exportation to Europe is curtailing the domestic supply. The new sugar crop should be ready for distribution late this month, it is said.

Grain Corporation Halts Purchases.

LEAGUE FOR PRESERVATION OF INDEPENDENCE FORMED HERE

Many Members of Friends of Irish Freedom Active in Club "to Keep U. S. Free of Entangling Alliances." The Missouri League for the Preservation of American Independence was permanently organized with Dr. John H. Simon as president at a meeting at 2339 Olive street last night.

Other officers elected were Miss Lena Frank of 1208 Aubert avenue, a lawyer, secretary; F. H. Swift, 2862 Olive street, a druggist, and Paul Fable, 2347 Halliday avenue, a broker, vice presidents, and Emil Frei, 3934 South Grand avenue, an art glass manufacturer, treasurer. The objects of the league as outlined in its constitution are: To preserve and perpetuate American policies, and especially the Monroe Doctrine; to keep the United States of America free from entangling alliances; to oppose all attempts to bind the United States to preserve the territories or boundaries of the European or Asiatic nations; to oppose the United States entering into any contract which will compel it to take part in disputes between countries outside of its own boundaries; to maintain our allegiance to the doctrines enunciated by Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland and Roosevelt, as the established policy of America.

Thomas T. Fauntleroy, a lawyer, made a speech in which he referred to the league of nations as "a piece of impudence on the part of President Wilson and an utter abomination—as dangerous to the sovereignty of the United States as a rattlesnake."

Many members of the Friends of Irish Freedom are active in the League for the Preservation of American Independence.

SHIPPING STRIKE 'UNSANCTIONED'

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The action of the 10,000 longshoremen, who with tugboat men and shipyard workers went on strike yesterday, was "unsanctioned" and the wharf workers have been ordered back to work, President John F. Riley, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, announces. The strike of the shipyard workers has spread, and it is learned that 10 more companies became affected during the day, when 1400 members of the local River Front and Marine Workers' Association and the local Ship Sealers' Union quit work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Thousands of skilled and unskilled workmen in Pacific Coast shipyards struck yesterday to enforce demands for wage increases. The walkout followed the failure of the employers to grant the men a wage increase of 3 cents an hour.

ENTRIES FOR AUTO TOUR TO CLOSE NEXT TUESDAY

Three Prizes in 3 Classes Are Offered for Reliability Trip to Cape Girardeau and Back.

Entries for the Tenth Annual Reliability Tour, to be held by the Automobile Club of St. Louis, Oct. 10 and 11, to Cape Girardeau and return, must be in the hands of Samuel Plant, chairman of the Touring Committee, not later than noon, next Tuesday.

Entries will be accepted in three classes. The first is made up of cars driven by owners or members of their immediate family. Entrants for this class need not be members of the club. Class B, cars belonging to club members only, and driven by chauffeurs. Class C, cars belonging to club members, which run as noncontestants under the rules, except as to time and route.

Prizes Offered. Three prizes will be offered in each class. The first prize in Class A is a $250 solid gold Waltham Maximus watch.

The first prize in Classes B and C will be silver pieces, and the second and third prizes in all three classes will be tires.

The first car will start from Forest Park boulevard and King's highway at 8 o'clock, on Friday morning, Oct. 10. Other cars will follow at three-minute intervals. Club officials will be stationed at Hillsboro, Farmington, Fredericktown, Oak Ridge and Cape Girardeau. An exact schedule has been prepared and cars arriving at any of these five points more than one-half minute ahead of or behind their scheduled time, will be penalized at the rate of one point for each 30 seconds early or late.

That 20 or 40 automobiles can cover a 314-mile run on a schedule as close as that maintained by the best trains on any railroad gives evidence that the automobile dealers of today are actually producing reliable machines.

To Test Cars. On Saturday morning the first car will leave Cape Girardeau at 7 a. m., and is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis about 3:30 p. m. It will then be put through a very close technical examination, to discover whether it has any loose or missing parts, whether the brakes are in first-class condition, and whether it has, in general, proven its reliability for long journeys.

In the seat with the driver of each car will ride an official observer upon whom rests the responsibility of seeing that the contestant does not violate any of the rules of the tour, between checking stations. Neither the car nor the engine must be permitted to stop on the entire run, except during the noon control, when an hour is allowed for lunch. During the noon and night controls, the cars are guarded by club officials, and the contestants are not permitted to touch them. If repairs or adjustments are required on the journey, they must be made on the contestant's running time, and at the cost of a penalty, listed in the rules book.

An entry fee of $2 is exacted of members and non-members alike.

ST. LOUIS POST TO HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS

LeJeune Asked to Speak at Meeting Tomorrow; D. S. C. to Brother of Corporal.

St. Louis Post, American Legion, will elect permanent officers in the Cabanne Branch Library, Union avenue and Hadimont tracks, tomorrow at 8 p. m., and will instruct its delegates to the State convention in Jefferson City, to be held Monday and Tuesday. Lieutenant-Colonel Dwight F. Davis is temporary chairman of the post.

Major-General Le Jeune, who commanded the Fifth and Sixth Regiments of Marines during a portion of their service in France, has been invited to speak at the meeting. Delegates from St. Louis to the State convention will occupy special cars attached to the Missouri Pacific train departing Union Station at 6:25 p. m. Sunday. Delegates have been requested to purchase transportation through Capt. Christy M. Farrar, 1401 Third National Bank Building.

A Distinguished Service Cross won by the late Corp. Joseph A. O'Leary, 124th Field Artillery, last night was presented to his younger brother, Robert O'Leary, 720 North Seventh street, East St. Louis, by Col. John M. Parker, commanding the St. Louis recruiting district of the army, during a meeting of Quentin Roosevelt Post No. 1, in Central High School.

Col. Parker gave his views of work ahead for the legion. "We who have returned from overseas have seen but the beginning of trouble," he said. "There are wars and strife all around us. Bolshevism threatens the world. We are facing a fight for decent citizenship and national honor. Men of the American Legion must stand together to bring about a better world order."

Quentin Roosevelt Post received 150 new members last night, making its total 700. Shaw-Stevens Post, No. 103, was organized among former service men in Maplewood last night. The following were elected officers: Elmer Lindsey, chairman; Roger H. Stevens, vice chairman; William J. Carr, secretary; James D. Dolan, finance officer; Daniel T. Gregory, chaplain; Harry J. Weber, historian, and I. A. Willerton, master at arms.

Missouri Baptists to Meet Here. The eighty-eighth annual session of the Missouri Baptist Association will be held in St. Louis Oct. 21 to 23. Baptist ministers of the State will hold a conference on the day preceding the opening.

AGREEMENT REACHED ON PROHIBITION BILL

Senate Conferees Retain Liberalizing Clauses of Enforcement Measure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Breaking a three weeks' deadlock, Senate and House conferees reached an agreement late yesterday on the prohibition enforcement bill. Quick approval of the conferees' report is expected by leaders and the measure may go to the President early next week.

The conference report will be acted on first by the Senate, to which it would be reported Friday and then sent to the House.

Provisions for manufacture and sale of industrial spirits and for spirits for sacramental and scientific use are retained, but rigorous safeguards against manufacture and sale of drinks for any other purposes are prohibited.

The Senate conferees, however, succeeded in retaining virtually every one of the 235 liberalizing provisions adopted by the upper House, which comprise mostly administrative features. The principal "liberal" amendment of the Senate permitting home manufacture and consumption of cider and light wines was approved.

In the principal conference dispute over imposition of the "burden of proof" in prosecutions, the Senate managers were successful, for the bill as agreed on provides that the Government must bear the "burden of proof" and prove its case in prosecuting those selling beverages by showing that the beverages concerned contained more than the alcoholic limit of one-half of one percent. Manufacturers, however, as provided by both the House and Senate bills, must bear the burden of proof that their products contained alcohol only within the amount prescribed.

No change was made by the conferees in the provision which would allow a man to have and consume in his own home liquor acquired before the law goes into effect.

Other Senate amendments accepted included that striking out the clause penalizing drunkenness on trains, street cars, automobiles, ferries or other public conveyances and the provision prohibiting general public inspection of the records of sales and purchases filed with the Internal Revenue Commissioner.

BANKERS PLAN TO ELIMINATE LOANS ON SECRET ACCOUNTS

Will Seek Co-operation of Federal Reserve Board and Comptroller of Currency.

Co-operation of the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller of the Currency is to be sought by the executive committee of the National Bankers' Association, in an effort to stop the practice of lending money to commercial houses on the secret assignment of accounts.

A committee, appointed a year ago to devise a plan of combatting the system, reported yesterday that satisfactory results can be obtained only with the assistance of the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller of the Currency.

The committee reported that about 10 per cent of 4000 National and State bankers who had been interviewed on the subject took the position that some of their best customers were among the type of commercial bankers which the committee sought to discourage, and that there also were a number who criticized the American Bankers' Association for frowning upon this character of business, and yet encouraging in every possible way the business of trade acceptances, claiming from their standpoint that there appeared to be little difference in the two systems.

"Home folks" telling of an

MAPLEWOOD, ST. LOUIS COUNTY, MO.,
7216 Sarah Street,
St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—My parents bought a Charter
Oak Stove in 1855. My mother used it constantly every day until 1909, when it passed into my wife's possession, and she used it without needing any repairs, up to February 23, 1916, sixty-four years' use. In 1916 it was destroyed by a dynamite explosion which wrecked our home. Of course we have remained loyal to the Charter Oak. Yours truly, Signed
CHAS. A. WILHARDT.

BANKERS DISCUSS NEW PLAN FOR RAIL RATES

Warfield Proposal Is Taken
 Under Consideration by Savings Bank Section.

A discussion of the Warfield plan of railroad rate-making, which was put forth by S. Davies Warfield of Baltimore, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, was included within the time allotted to Luther M. Walter, counsel for the security owners' organization, before the Savings Bank Section of the American Bankers' Association, yesterday afternoon.

The security owners' organization it was stated, has undertaken to bring about amendments to the Cummins bill, now pending in the Senate. The discussion set forth that there are three proposed plans of rate-making.

"One plan," Warfield suggested, "is to leave the question of rate-making as it now is, which the Interstate Commerce Commission determines what amount of return, above the constitutional minimum, should be granted."

"Another plan is covered by the railway executives' plan and is that we ought to have a statutory rule of rate-making, and that it ought to specify what shall be included in determining the rate, and the amount should not be fixed, and that an administrative board should be created to be governed by that standard, and then the administrative board would prepare the budget and submit it to the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is perhaps a more definite rule of rate-making than we have at present."

"The third plan is what is known as the Warfield plan, which, in general, is to have a definite rule, which is the policy determined upon by Congress—a definite rule of rate-making for certain rate-making groups, and have the standard of a fair, aggressive return on that group."

The indorsement of the Warfield plan by Edgar E. Clark, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was cited, together with arguments made before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce last month.

In a communication on this subject, addressed to the Savings Bank Section, Warfield said:

"The great majority of the railroads of the country cannot be rehabilitated and perform service, by definite measure, is made that rates shall be adjusted which will enable this great majority of roads to perform service; incident to this, earnings in excess of a reasonable return would result to a few more favorably situated carriers. The excess earnings would not result from efficiency or from the necessities of the latter. None of this excess would go to other railroads as has been stated, but would be used for general transportation purposes."

Hope to End Opposition.
 "It is to be hoped that where there has been opposition to the inclusion in an act of a definite minimum percentage return, which has come from the representatives of these few more favorably situated railroads in their desire to retain more than is reasonably theirs, it will cease. Such opposition is indefensible, not alone because it evidences a determination not to recognize the necessities of the great majority of roads, but because this legislation would stabilize credit and securities as would be of benefit to all the railroads and to the country."

The owners of the securities of the railroads have given abundant evidence of their views and desires on this subject in the memorial recently presented to Congress signed by officials of investing institutions and others representing $27,500,000,000 (40 per cent) of the total financial resources of the country, and 80 per cent of the funds available for investment in railroad securities; also signed by thousands of business men.

ALBERT ONLY REPORTER WHO EVER BECAME KING

Belgian Monarch Endeared Himself to People From Time
He Succeeded to Crown.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Albert
A. King of the Belgians, the only newspaper reporter who ever became a monarch, is 44 years old and is one of the most picturesque figures of the great war.

The King took a post-graduate course in "newspaper" training in 1908 when, somewhat like Peter the Great, he visited the shipyards of France, Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Scandinavia, to learn everything possible regarding ocean carriers, with the expectation at some future time of putting Belgium high in the class of maritime Powers. Several years previously, it is said, when merely the son of the Count of Flanders, a nephew of King Leopold, he came to the United States and worked as a reporter on one or two newspapers in the Northwest.

Success to the crown on Dec.
23, 1909, Albert I endeared himself to the 7,500,000 people of his little kingdom. The abuses of the Congo, which had brought upon the head of his aged uncle, Leopold, the condemnation of the civilized world, were abolished and the King and his beautiful consort faced the prospect of a long and happy reign in a country where "tramps, idlers and soup-houses are unknown."

Then came the war. The King of the Belgians might have yielded and escaped much of the hardship and suffering that was the lot of himself and his people for more than four years. Heeding not the specious promises of the Germans to pay Belgium huge sums for the privilege of crossing her soil to attack France, the King rallied his army of 250,000 men and placed himself at their head to fight the invader. When the German armies violated at Vise the neutrality of the little nation they were pledged to protect, they met with the most stubborn resistance from the numerically inferior Belgians at the forts of Liege and Namur.

During the great conflict King Albert spared himself none of the rigors of the soldier. Once a German shell tore off the wheel of the automobile in which he was riding. At another time a chauffeur who had been promised $200,000 to deliver the King to the enemy was shot dead as he endeavored to drive the royal car into the German lines.

"My skin is of no more value than yours," he told his heartick soldiers on their retreat from Antwerp. "My place is on the firing line!"

Resists German Influence.

Although his mother was a Hohenloren Princess and his wife a Bavarian Princess, and although in his youth he had been educated in Germany, he maintained an independence of character that irritated the former Emperor of Germany.

The latter, among other honors before the war, conferred upon Albert the title of honorary Colonel of the Mecklenburg Regiment, an act which the Belgian press construed as an effort of the German ruler to gain an influence over the young King.

An indication of Albert's spirit came when Belgium was invaded.
In taking command of his troops on Aug. 6, 1914, he said: "A neighbor, haughty in its strength, without the slightest provocation, has torn up a treaty bearing its signature and has violated the territory of our fathers because we refused to forfeit our honor. It has attacked us.
Seeing its independence threatened, the nation trembled and its children sprang to the frontier, valiant soldiers in a sacred cause. I have confidence in your tenacious courage. I greet you in the name of Belgium, a fellow citizen who is proud of you!"

One year after Belgium's heroic resistance to the German flood, the people of Paris, in gratitude to and affection for King Albert, presented to him a gift sword of Sainte-Etienne steel, the design of which was wrought by the sculptor Fete. Upon the blade, ornamented with panoplies of steel upon gold, was a tribute written by Jean Richepin:

"No Thoroughfare."
"No thoroughfare" is the inscription upon the guard at the foot of the hilt in the form of a statuette.
In massive gold, representing a young athlete upon the defensive, brandishing a club.

On Friday, Nov. 15, 1918, after years of bitter privations, King Albert returned with his victorious troops to his devastated capital amid the loud acclaim of the people.

Queen Elizabeth, who was married to King Albert in 1900, as the Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria, was described at the time as "a strikingly handsome woman. The marriage was quite generally supposed to have been a genuine love match. Three children have been born to them, the heir apparent, Prince Leopold,
Duke of Brabant, born Nov. 3, 1901;
a second son, Prince Charles Theodore, born in 1902, and a daughter, the Princess Marie Jose, born in 1906.

The Queen is highly educated and fond of music, literature and art.
Music is said to be a passion with her and she is an accomplished violinist. She also plays the piano and mandolin with much ability. It is said that she has a marked preference for the old repertoire, but confesses to a dominating Wagner. Some years ago she developed talent as a dramatist, and in 1906 wrote "Rosamond," a play, which was produced in Brussels in March of that year and caused a decided stir in the Belgian capital. She is also a skilled horsewoman.

Queen a Physician.

During the war the Queen nursed many wounded soldiers. A daughter of Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, a renowned oculist, she began the study of medicine herself at the age of 18 and took her degree of M. D. at Leipzig just before her marriage. Exceedingly fond of horses and dogs, the Queen, before the war, frequently attended the weekly inspection of the royal stables at Laeken, when the hundred or more assisted attendants instructions as to proper treatment. Havana grif-fons are her favorite dogs and two of them stand guard in the royal drawing room.

Queen Elizabeth's charity is said by the Belgians to be unbounded.
Many a struggling artist at the Opera in Brussels has been able to benefit from her generosity without being aware of the fact.

Seeks to Educate People.

Queen Elizabeth has sought to educate her people in domestic economy and other useful arts. She founded a training school for cooks in Brussels on the lines of a university, with a three-year course and an honor class. Liberal prizes were offered by the Queen to the students who invented new dishes.
The students were from all classes of society, working girls, social butterflies and intellectuals.

The Queen is an expert cook, and frequently called at the school to advise the teachers and watch the progress of the students. Among her numerous charities, not the least is the Albert-Elizabeth Dispensary in Brussels which the King and Queen established and have supported for years.

Germany Agrees in New Cabinet.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Oct. 2.—A semi-official statement confirms the report that a complete agreement has been reached regarding the reconstruction of the Cabinet. Democrats will take the Ministries of Justice and Interior, and also a new ministerial post for the execution of the economic provision of the peace treaty, particularly those concerning the restitution of Northern France and Belgium. This Ministry also will have charge of the matter of compensation for Germany abroad, and compensation for the mercantile fleet.

GARY WILL NEVER YIELD TO UNIONS, HE TELLS SENATE

Even Now Strike Is Failing, One of His Declarations on the Stand in Inquiry Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Declaring that the question of the open shop—the right of a man to work irrespective of whether he was a member of a labor union—was the sole issue in the nation-wide steel strike, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, told the Senate committee investigating the strike yesterday that his corporation would never yield. Even now, he said, the strike is failing.

There was no reason for this strike, said Gary. "The men did not want it. It was forced on them from the outside, by the organizers of labor unions. The open shop is the question here—the right to bring about fullest production with only the interests of the employee, the employer and the public in sight."

Labor leaders, he told the committee, were seeking to unionize all industry in the country. Should their efforts be successful, the industrial decay would follow. "It means the condition I fear England is in today," he added. "Though I have hopes she will come out of it."

Gary reviewed conditions leading up to the strike. To have negotiated with the union committee, he said, would have been a departure from the company's policy to treat directly with its employees and would have damaged the prestige of the open shop policy. Discussing this point with Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, he said conditions might arise under which he might talk with union leaders not employed by the company. "Provided they said fairly that they represented 15 per cent of the men employed, for instance," he said, "I might discuss the wishes of that 15 per cent with them."

Gary brushed aside the charges of union leaders that the corporation had mistreated its men, with the statement that in no basic industry in the world were the men better treated or paid higher wages. Later he presented figures to show that the employees generally received approximately three times as much now as they did in 1914.

Gary refused to discuss the efforts by President Wilson to bring about an understanding between the corporation and the union leaders and avert the strike. "When the President communicates with a private citizen," he said, "it isn't courteous for the person so approached to say what the communication was."

Gary said: "The general public now requires increased production. That may even necessitate increased hours, up to the limit set by the willingness of workers and their health. But there is no use of talking about increased wages and decreased production and at the same time roaring about rising prices. I'm in favor of high wages, but there comes a time when there is a limit. In my view prices are too high right now. The right way to do is to lower them first and decrease wages last. That is the policy of the steel industry."

No And-Union Appropriation. "It was claimed here that you have appropriated large sums to fight labor unions," Senator Phipps remarked.

"We've never set aside one penny for that purpose," said Gary. Replying to questions by Senator Walsh, the witness said he would not deny that labor unions might be good things in places and at times, but that "universal practices of labor unions carried to their extreme which permits outside agitators to establish the closed shop universally is inimical to the best interests of the rest of the employees and the general public."

Senator Walsh asked whether labor organizations had not secured great reforms in working conditions, wages and the like. "I deny that most emphatically," said Judge Gary. "The steel corporation has been in the van all the time in that respect."

"Do you mean to say that the steel industry led the country in the eight-hour day?" asked Chairman Kenyon. "I didn't say we had adopted the eight-hour day," Judge Gary replied. "That has been largely a question of desire on the part of the employees. It involves the question of compensation."

"I think a large portion of the public believes in the eight-hour day on the ground that that's long enough for a man to work. We're very carefully considering the question as a matter of policy and principle. If we can make it practicable to adopt eight hours through our own work universally and the men are willing to accept that, we'll be very glad to adopt it."

Public and President. "Then you take public sentiment into consideration in this controversy," Senator Kenyon continued. "Who do you recognize as representing the public—the President?" "Well, you know there are two parties. One party claims the President does and the other that he does not. I have very great respect for the President myself."

Chairman Kenyon pressed Judge Gary regarding testimony before the committee that President Wilson had requested him to receive the Strike Committee. "Don't you think you ought to get an answer to that question from him?" Gary demurred. "If I had I wouldn't have asked it," Senator Kenyon said. "Do you decline to state whether the President wrote you to that effect?" "If you insist, no," Judge Gary replied. "but I think you ought not to ask the question."

Judge Gary said he thought public sentiment was largely against the closed shop and for the open-shop principle. "I agree with you," said Chairman Kenyon.

Resuming the stand late in the day, Judge Gary said the Steel Corporation had expended $32,000,000 on residences for its employees, and had $7,000,000 in houses not yet completed. "On our rented houses," he said, "the rent has not been increased since 1914. Since 1912 we have paid out for welfare work $65,700,000."

Judge Gary added that during the same period the company had built 47 schools and 23 churches. Stock in the company, he said, is now owned by 61,000 employees. "I don't think the labor unions are one-tenth as interested in the welfare of our men as we are," said Judge Gary.

VARIABLE DOLLAR WILL CUT PRICES, SAYS YALE MAN

Professor Fisher Believes by Changing Weight of Gold, Credit Structure Would Remain Intact.

TOO MUCH MONEY CAUSES HIGH COSTS
Importation of Billion in Gold and 22 Billions of Liberty Loans Explains High Cost of Living.

As a cure for high prices, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University suggested to the American Bankers' Association, in his address at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater today, that the weight of the dollar should be made variable. Prof. Fisher is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on economics. His theme was "Stabilizing the Dollar."
"Our present dollar is constant in weight," Prof. Fisher said. "No matter what influx of gold may take place, or how much the value (purchasing power) of gold is lessened by the increase of its paper and credit substitutes, the government must pay the same nominal price for it. In other words, fluctuations in the price of gold cannot show themselves in the altered price of gold. They are, therefore, reflected in the prices of other things."

Vary Gold Price.
"Let us, therefore, vary the price of gold. In other words, let us vary the weight of the dollar, weighting it when the index number of prices is too high, and lightening it when the index number of prices is too low."

"This can easily be managed if we have gold circulate by means of paper representatives, redeemable in whatever amount of gold bullion may be, at that date, the dollar."

"In this way, any change in the price level is always in process of being corrected, the gold bullion dollar is always being approximated to a constant purchasing power, the circulating dollar certificates are redeemable and hence equal in purchasing power to this amount of gold, and finally the credit structure (assuming a sound banking system) is also kept from fluctuating by its relation to this stabilized dollar."

"As to the bankers' reserves, these would all be kept not in gold but in gold certificates redeemable at the subtreasuries in gold bullion of whatever weight per dollar should be declared at any time. Thus the banker would not be concerned with fluctuations in the price of gold, but the Government would assume this responsibility—as it should under our Constitutional provision to regulate the value of money."

Too Much Money.
Too much money is the cause of the present difficulties of the American people, Dr. Fisher said. "The average man persists in thinking that a dollar is a dollar. As he cannot imagine having too much money himself, he cannot imagine a country having too much money. He little dreams that his present difficulties with the high cost of living are due primarily to too much money and substitutes for money, or credits."

"In the combination of inflation over high prices and ignorance of their true cause, we find the real danger in our present situation. Ignorant radicalism is using high prices as a lever for attacking our economic system. The incessant strikes and the difficulties of the railroads and other public utilities, two outstanding features of the present every day, are not yet understood as due to inflation and the shrinking purchasing power of the dollar."

"This all points to the need for reaching a scientific solution of the problem before reckless radicalism has any further excuse for sweeping the country with some hastily conceived remedy such as would only leave things worse than they are."

Higher Price Level.
"The price level of the United States is now three-fold the level of 1896. Expressing the same fact in terms of the purchasing power of money, our dollar of today is worth only about 33 cents of the money of 1896. In modern slang, we may say almost literally that as compared with the biggest dollar we ever had, our present dollar 'looks like 33 cents'."

"Profligacy is an effect rather than a cause of rising prices, while scarcity of goods cannot in this country be alleged as an important factor. For solving the riddle, we must look at the other side of the price equation—the money side. We find that the great price movements correspond to monetary standards. Thus prices in all gold standard countries move alike and prices in all silver standard countries move alike, while there is a great contrast between the gold and silver countries in their price movements."

"Again, we find that the ups and downs of prices correspond roughly to the ups and downs of the money supply. In August, 1915, the gold supply of our country began to increase rapidly, on account of the importation of bullion in payment for war supplies. One month later prices began to shoot upward. In February, 1916, money suddenly and temporarily stopped increasing, and there followed a corresponding jog in the course of prices. Following our entry into the war, the credit structure based on this gold also increased far faster than the customary rate, and faster than would have been necessary for normal business.

"War finance is a prolific source of monetary and credit expansion. Russia indulged in the simple crass inflation of paying Government bills by printing irredeemable paper. Before the Bolshevik regime the Russian Government printing presses turned out, according to reports, a million roubles an hour, day in and day out for over a year at a stretch."

Under Bolshevism the output has been even greater, a total of $8,000,000,000 in nominal value having been issued, which is more than the money of all the rest of the world put together.

Bonds as Collateral.
"Germany allowed the people, when a new loan was asked, to deposit the bonds of the previous loans at certain banks which were authorized to issue paper money to the depositor who then lent this paper money to the Government. In the United States, Liberty Bonds were likewise used as collateral at banks, which, in turn, deposited them with Federal reserve banks and received their notes."

"War finance also brought us still another kind of inflation, the most modern and approved, due not to the increase of money proper, but to the increased volume of bank deposits subject to check. Banks subscribed to Liberty Loans simply by writing deposits on their books to the credit of the Government, and individuals lent to the Government by borrowing of the banks, the sums so borrowed being likewise created by the banks as deposits on their books."

"All these methods of war finance may be defended on the plea of necessity, but they are inflation none the less, even when gold redemption has been maintained, and they therefore tend to add to the cost of living. As Dr. Miller of the Federal Reserve Board has said, 'Inflation is no less inflation when gilded with gold.'"

"On the whole, the money in circulation in the United States rose from three and one-third billions in 1913 to five and a half billions in 1918, and bank deposits from 13 to 25 billions, both approximately corresponding to the rise in prices."

"The secret of high prices, then, lies not so much in scarcity of goods, or profiteering in trade, or in the other conditions usually supposed, but in our money and banking conditions. The great cause lies in the fact that the world's war debts have been pulverized into circulating media. This first occurred in Europe, but we in America felt its reflex effect long before we entered the war. The European inflation sent their gold to us in payment for war supplies. The billion dollars of new gold imported into the United States between August, 1915, and our entry into the war gave our price level its great wartime boost. That billion of gold and our 22 billions of Liberty Loans after we entered the war explain more than nine-tenths of our high cost of living today."

"This rise of prices has hurt those with 'fixed' incomes and helped those who take what is left—the so-called 'profiteers.'"

"In spite of the general impression to the contrary, wages have not, on the average, kept up with the soaring cost of living."

WOMAN SUE ON OIL DEALS DEMANDS ACCOUNTING FOR SELF

Christian Science Practitioner Seeks Notes and Money Paid on 5000 Shares of Stock.
Mrs. Elizabeth B. Shortridge, 4418 Washington boulevard, a Christian Science practitioner, yesterday filed suit against Frank E. Morris of Kansas City, Rose Held, 4103 North Euclid avenue, and the Neosho Oil, Gas and Refining Co. for an accounting.

She alleges that Morris induced her to buy 5000 shares of stock in the oil and gas company, which, she said, he claimed he would obtain at the lowest figure, $2 a share, but says she since has learned he paid only $1 a share. She paid $5334 in cash and gave her notes for the balance.

The petition recites that although the notes were supposed to be payable to the company, Morris, the plaintiff is informed, made himself payee, and since has assigned the notes to Miss Held, who is employed in a local shirt factory, according to a memorandum to the sheriff.

The prayer of the petition is that Miss Held be required to surrender the notes to the plaintiff, and that the other defendants be required to deliver to Mrs. Shortridge a certificate for 5000 shares of stock fully paid in addition to refunding to her $334 which she said she paid in excess of the actual value.

More than a year ago Mrs. Shortridge was made defendant in several suits instituted by persons who said she induced them to invest money in the same enterprise.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Much-Needed Institutions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 It was with a great deal of pleasure that I read the annual report of the Hospital Commissioner, Cleveland H. Shutt, especially wherein he recommends that there will be established a separate institution for the incurable tuberculosis cases. This is to my mind a very necessary move, and a site on the bluffs of the Meramec River adjacent to the city limits would be an ideal place for such an institution. I was also much pleased with his recommendation that there be established, within the confines of the city, an institution for feeble-minded and epileptic children. St. Louis has its percentage of this type of children and an institution such as he recommends is very necessary.

I would also like to suggest that there be established a municipal dental clinic. In the St. Louis public school system there are three free dental clinics, which are very inadequate, and it is my hope that under the control of the Hospital Department there be established a municipal dental clinic for children over school age and others. This is as necessary as the free dispensary for medical and surgical cases.

 Supervisor of Hygiene.

Causes for Lynching.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 In assigning the cause for the outrageous Omaha riot you said in your editorial of Sept. 29 that the outbreak did not start as a race riot, although it developed features indicating aroused race prejudice. "The primary cause," you said, "was an unusually brutal example of the crime that causes most negro lynchings."

Now this last statement from the editor of the Post-Dispatch is astounding as the extreme, for it seems to place him with those who seem to think it perfectly right to make damaging statements about the negro race without consulting the facts in the matter.

"What are the facts about this matter?" Are most of the negroes lynched for attacks upon women, as the Post-Dispatch asserts? The September issue of the Crisis, the official organ of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, answers this completely by showing that in the last 30 years 35.8 per cent of negroes lynched were lynched for murder, 28.4 per cent for rape and attacks on women, 17.8 per cent for crimes against person and property other than those mentioned above, 12 per cent for miscellaneous crimes, while 5.6 per cent of those lynched were accused of no crime at all. These figures do not show that most of the negroes lynched are lynched for crimes against women, as the Post-Dispatch says.

SAMUEL J. BRANCH,
 4214 West Belle place, St. Louis, Mo.

(According to the Omaha records, there have been 35 cases of assault by negroes upon white women since June 1, and another since the riot. Admitting the correctness of the statistics which are being quoted with regard to the relative number of assaults for which negroes have been lynched, there is not much force in a defense which claims that only a large minority of lynchings are caused by this outrageous crime. It is this crime which incites the mobs. Law-abiding negroes should devote themselves to stopping crime that causes riots.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.)

The Lynching Mania.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 We faithfully acknowledge the reading in a recent edition of your paper the lynching and burning of Obbe Cox (colored), near Lexington, Ga., a few days ago, accused of murdering the wife of a white farmer and who was also under indictment for an attack upon a female member of his own race. Dispatches report the holding of a mass meeting by his race, resolutions adopted condemning some of fellow members of his race. We venture on denouncing the spirit in the resolution in favor of lynching adopted by the negroes of that community as infamous and un-American to our constitution and laws. We deplore the crime of the accused, Obbe Cox, but bitterly denounce the approval of mob spirit, lynchings and burning at stake human life without due process of law.

As the power of the pen and the press are mightier than the sword, we appeal through your columns for a condemnation of mob violence and mob spirit.

JESSE J. CROW.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have a picture of a soldier whose name was Robert Eyekus, who enlisted in Company G, First Missouri, later 118th U. S. A. It was taken by my son at the arsenal where Company G camped before moving on to Maxwell. As this soldier was killed in the Argonne battle I thought possibly his relatives might prize this picture of him and would be very glad to turn it over to them. I doubt his relatives may learn of this through any publicity you care to give.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

The conduct of the mob at Ardmore, Ok., which threw eggs at Senator Reed and prevented him from speaking against the League of Nations by riotous disorder is indefensible. It was a disgrace to Ardmore. Conduct of this kind in suppression of free speech does not help a cause, but hurts it. A rotten egg is no better argument for the peace covenant than abuse of the President is against it.

While the disorder at Ardmore is indefensible, the unbridled abuse of President Wilson by Senator Reed, Senator Johnson and several of their associates is unjustified. They have sowed the wind in personal attacks on the President, and it was to be expected that they would reap a whirlwind of popular indignation now and then. They have impugned the President's motive, denounced him as an autocrat who has wasted public money and exceeded his powers to feed his personal vanity, and has betrayed the United States to our allies. They have charged him with gross misconduct and have not hesitated to make statements designed to taint his motives, belittle his work and bring him and his great cause into public contempt and hatred.

These attacks on the President are not legitimate arguments against the peace treaty and the League of Nations. They appeal to passion and prejudice. They belittle the issue and confuse the public mind. They arouse anger and resentment.

Neither side to the controversy has been guilty of illegitimate methods of attack. Both have sinned, but it must be admitted that the great balance of excesses is on the side of the opposition, who have been unsparing in assaults upon the President from a personal standpoint. The course of the opposition hindering the peace treaty is indefensible. It has been marked by delay, secret conferences and hidden maneuverings to accomplish their ends. It has been marred by bitter partisanship, recognized and condemned by Senators belonging to the party of the partisan opponents.

The course of the extreme opponents of the treaty is not the course of statesmanship. It is contrary to the spirit of reason, deliberation and judicious debate, which should characterize dealing with a problem so vital to the welfare of the American people and the peoples of the world. It leads to no reasonable and beneficial conclusion, but arouses passion, bitterness, partisanship and prejudice, all the emotional elements which should be eliminated from the consideration of a subject in which calm reason and sound judgment should govern discussion and action.

The Ardmore experience should be a valuable lesson to all concerned. Let personal philippics, partisan bitterness, abuse and secret conspiracies be cut out. Let us have open, fair discussion and prompt, judicious action on the peace treaty. The existing situation has become intolerable.

SHOULD BANKS BE PARTISAN?

Banker Hal H. Smith of Detroit advises the bankers of the nation to take sides against labor in the present industrial crisis. He jumps the labor union and the Bolshevik together and asks "Where should the trust company and bank stand when the very institution of private property is attacked?" And incidentally he blames the Democratic administration for this imaginary state of things. He says that labor is drunk with political power but recently accorded to it "and swollen with a political prestige created by a new and surprising deference upon the part of those who rule the nation."

Let the bankers keep their heads. We are not on the eve of a revolution, in spite of disquieting appearances. It is not necessary for them to imperil their investments, deposits and savings, placed in trust with them by the general public, to finance the embattled capitalists. Nor is it necessary, as Banker Smith suggests, to act in an unbusiness manner with the money deposited in the banks by the American Federation of Labor or other organizations of workers. Don't let partisanship displace business, nor forget that the general public is the main support of the bank.

THE NEW STRIKE BREAKER, GASOLINE.

Success or failure of the great railroad strike in England may depend, not on the determination of the two sides, the size of the strike fund or the needs of business and the discomfort of the public, but on the amount of gasoline in the country. It shows how generally the world has come to think in terms of gasoline, how universal a necessity it has become, how much its intrinsic value is to be placed above even gold. With the national system of steam transit out of commission, what is the next dependence of the country? Gasoline transit, of course. With all motor cars and motor trucks operating at full capacity, the damaging effects of the strike are greatly minimized. Ample supplies of gasoline would mean that the most urgent needs could be met, should the strike continue indefinitely.

There is in England a supply of food sufficient for 14 weeks, but a supply of gasoline sufficient for only nine weeks. So, unless an adjustment is made before, the critical time will come in the tenth week. A full month's supply of food will then remain, but the service of the universal strikebreaker, gasoline, will be lacking to distribute the food.

It looks as if Senator Reed were almost as popular in Oklahoma as Cartoonist Minor is in Kansas.

CRISIS IN MAGAZINE PUBLICATION.

Because of the demands of New York pressmen and other printing crafts, periodicals said to number 250 and including some of the most widely circulated weeklies and monthlies in the United States are threatened with indefinite suspension. With some of the strongest of these publications planning to remove their publication offices to other cities, full-page advertisements appeared in the New York newspapers directing attention to the advantages of Chicago as a center of magazine publication and distribution. Chicago's "freedom from labor troubles" was especially emphasized.

If Chicago's attractions in a comparison with New York were made to seem rather impressive, it may be added that St. Louis offers substantial advantages as superior to Chicago as Chicago is to New York. St. Louis' immunity from serious strikes has become a subject of comment in circles throughout the country which keep themselves informed as to general business conditions. This immunity long ago became a matter of official record and of official congratulation at Washington. Furthermore, as long as the zone system—stubbornly defended by some Government authorities—continues, any publication of nation-wide circulation could save important sums in its postal bills by locating its distribution center in St. Louis, which is close to the center of population and only 1800 miles distant from the most remote postoffice.

These special advantages are in addition to general advantages which are shared with other interior cities, as compared with cities located on the seaboard and more or less out of touch with the real American sentiment. The sooner some of those old, long-established magazines which make visits at regular intervals to hundreds of thousands of interior homes put "St. Louis" in the date line of their title pages, the sooner they will realize that these advantages are very practical and valuable and not merely fanciful and theoretical.

THE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA BUDGET.

The announcement for the Symphony Orchestra's season of 1919-20 says that if every seat in the Odeon is sold for every evening on which a concert will be given during the season, there will still be a deficit of about $25,000.

But, of course, every seat for every concert will not be sold. There will be stormy evenings, and stormy Sunday afternoons when sales of single tickets will be disappointing. Counter attractions will at times affect door sales. Receipts from season tickets cannot be expected to cover the full capacity of the hall. From season tickets it is estimated that an income of $45,000 will be provided; from single tickets for evening and pop concerts $20,000 and from special concerts and tours $6000, making a total income of $71,000.

On the other side of the budget statement, however, is $90,725 to be expended in the salaries of conductor, orchestra players and soloists—little enough for artists and players of real symphony rank—and $25,738.37 for other salaries, hall rent, advertising, music and miscellaneous expenses, making a total outgo of $116,463.37. The least possible deficit with the orchestra playing to capacity business at every performance is $25,000, but the probable deficit is $45,000, with every source of income estimated at the very highest figure it is likely to reach.

The budget showing has its enlightenment for those who have been inclined to look on our Symphony Orchestra as an amusement enterprise rather than as a community institution. It shows how closely the orchestra status approximates that of the Art Museum, with this important difference in detail, that whereas museum admissions are free, the entire cost of current maintenance being defrayed from tax money, orchestra admissions are fixed at a figure far below cost and individual generosity is depended on for a considerable part of the cost of current maintenance.

Support for the orchestra by the purchase of tickets or by sharing to the extent of one's ability in the obligations of the guarantee fund is a duty made very plain by the budget showing. Support for the zoo is involuntary. It is part of the taxes whose payment cannot be resisted. Every property owner can easily figure out what his contribution to it amounts to. Ought he not to spare at least an equal sum for the orchestra and pay it all the more cheerfully because it is asked as a voluntary, not an involuntary, contribution?

WHEN CITY EMPLOYEES EARN THEIR PAY.

No hardship will be worked on municipal employees by the institution of a seven-hour working day at the city hall, instead of a six-hour day or less.

The theoretical length of the working day there was made short and highly flexible within those moderate limits for the express purpose of creating an excuse for a multiplicity of political appointees. With heavy increase in the pay for private employment, the pressure for political jobs has diminished. Now, when city employees are asking for salary increases to establish a parity between private pay and city pay, it is entirely just and logical for the city to insist on establishing a parity between private working hours and city working hours.

In one overmanned city department the Efficiency Board survey has already shown that $55,000 can be saved yearly in the pay roll. This saving and $8000 more will be absorbed if increased pay at the rate demanded is accorded to the men who will remain after suggested consolidations and eliminations have been effected, but it indicated what can be done in retrenchment. The natural assumption that this waste of $55,000 went on for year after year before higher living costs gave any excuse for higher pay gives the taxpayers a subject for reflection.

With proportionate savings in other departments and the working hours in all increased 17 per cent or more, the city can pay larger salaries and still have money left out of appropriations on the present scale. The new range of living costs will be a blessing in disguise if it ends the old vicious system of patronage appointments and makes appointees understand that they positively must earn what they get.

THAT EGYPTIAN STRIKE.

Rev. E. A. Kirby of Girard, O., calls attention to the great labor disturbance in the ancient land of Egypt and says that Moses was the first strike leader, that he organized a nation-wide strike against the lords of Egypt and delivered his people from oppression.

As a sample strike on which to base action today, Father Kirby is not happy in his comparison. A re-reading of this famous old story shows that the Israelite brickmakers were not strikers and apparently had no idea of striking. When, as the result of the advice of Moses, they "rested from the burdens," Pharaoh took away their straw, a necessary ingredient of their sun-dried bricks. Instead of starting a riot, they wandered over the land trying to find stubble for straw. Then, as they could not complete their task of bricks, the foremen were beaten, as Father Kirby states, by Pharaoh's "constabulary." But instead of blaming Pharaoh, these ancient brick makers accused Moses and Aaron of making them "abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hands to slay us."

So Moses had to take the matter up again with Jehovah, and, we are further told, the movement then became a trial of strength between Moses and his supernatural powers and the Egyptian sorcerers, who were able, it appears, to duplicate all his miracles except the creation of lice out of dust, Moses having used up all the dust in Egypt to create these original creatures.

There are many things in which the Good Book can be used to advantage, but the steel strike does not appear to be one, at least not in the manner Father Kirby uses it.

Zinc, lead and oil have been found in abundance in the Ozark country, but it took Harold Bell Wright to locate a seemingly inexhaustible vein of gold.

PANATELA.

YES, Luella, Europeans are abundant. Are you now? Hard to state; Europe hadn't known about us as she happens to of late. After seeing us in action and the miracles We wrought, Europe sort of guessed. Our country Must be more Than she thought.

Anyway, They want To see us— How we live And how we grow; Want to see Us use our cunning In the art Of making dough; Where Mr. Hoover Got his food When things Were bad, And where boys Are being nurtured Such as those That Pershing had.

That is all, My sweet Luella: Once, in pride As if, conscious Of our worth, Looked upon us As a wild And woolly lot. Now they think Of us, when thinking As a great And mighty race, And they therefore Have a notion That they ought To see the place.

Let us treat them Just as sweetly As if, conscious Of our worth, They had always spoken of us As the greatest Race on earth. Maybe, if we treat Them nicely, Not a goat By us displayed While our visitors Are with us. We will turn The tourist trade.

What Ludendorff writes is without imagination. The junkies thought they could have a world like that!

In the absence of any such proofreading upon signs such as we have in St. Louis, the easiest thing to find in New York is a sign amid perfectly respectable surroundings in which the spelling is such as commands no one's respect. For instance, one of our sign hunters saw this done in gold letters upon an enamel field in the window of one of the finest ladies' clothing shops in New York:

Ask to See Our Latest Modes

$7.50 to $10.00

Another sign in New York:

A sign in Oklahoma:

Our sign hunter assumes that two brothers are running the restaurant, and that one may enjoy their hospitality at meal time for 50 cents. Our guess, too.

THE NOMAD.

I've turned from home to winding trails That beckon on and on, and I Have listened to the wind's soft tales And I must wander on or die!

It's good to wake with beating heart And eyes full of the glowing wilds. Seems like a mystic one's stretched chart Creeps in my soul—a little child!

The sky at dawn is like a dream A splendid man calls up to cheer, Dipt fresh with gold and crimson cream, The clouds roll back and disappear.

Then in the white caverns of sky It seems to me dim forms arise, Whose careless sleep was guarded by The blooded sun's sequestered eyes.

And all around the mountains bear Prone shapes modeled in dreams by Time— That sleep unroofed in freedom there Clothed in all Age's love and rhyme.

Ah! If the city man but knew While webbed with sleep, there are such things I wonder would he not come, too, And see, as I, Life's happenings!

Poor little folks that never go From where God put them for a start— A girl in bed—a man uptown— And catering to a bloodless heart!

Why don't they ever throw away All the hot mockery of Love, And live and love, like people may Who wander with the clouds above?

Ah! I would rather be heart-free— A nomad of the open wilds— And dream my throbbing eyes can see The mysteries of a little child's.

Yes, know my heart is free and strong, To sleep with starry eyes upturned, And meet new friends my whole life long, Who can breathe out new lessons learned.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRAS.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE Philadelphia Orchestra is out for an addition of $1,000,000 to its endowment fund, through the effort of 50 committees, each responsible for $20,000.

No part of the principal will be spent. Only the interest will be used to meet the current cost of maintenance.

There is a deficit of $66,000 annually, as compared with a deficit of $85,000 to $125,000 for other American symphony orchestras.

When the $1,000,000 additional has been secured, if the expenses do not increase, the income from the endowment fund will just cover the gap between what the public pays for seats and what it costs the Philadelphia Orchestra Association to maintain the greatest single municipal asset in Philadelphia.

As the orchestra is for the good of all, who should a comparatively small group of persons supply the ways and means? Is it not time for many thousands to take up the burden that a few hundreds have cheerfully and loyally carried for almost 20 years?

We have not even built a home for this famous organization. We have not done what smaller cities have done.

Boston built by popular subscriptions its Symphony Hall at a cost of $1,000,000.

Chicago erected a similar building, collecting $750,000 in sums of $1 and upward.

Detroit is putting up a $2,000,000 auditorium, replacing a building constructed this year for $750,000.

The Fine Arts Society in Cleveland promises to meet the annual deficit of Cleveland's orchestra up to $100,000. In St. Louis 22 business organizations have bought out the house for the season. In New York business men are guarantors in associations that stand ready to meet deficits as high as $100,000 for each of three orchestras. In Minneapolis, San Francisco and Los Angeles similar stories might be told.

There is no more desirable and delightful use of heralding the fair fame of any city. The time was passed long since when music was a fad for the dilettante. Men and women do not live in bread alone. They find in music a remedial influence not to be elsewhere discovered. They go to concerts because they find there a perennial source of genuine inspiration and refreshment.

By this communal earnest effort to put the finances of the orchestra on a solid and durable foundation it becomes at last and truly the Philadelphia Orchestra. The people at large become stockholding partners in a popular enterprise. Where their small investment is bestowed their heartfelt sympathies are forever engaged; money spent to save the orchestra for Philadelphia is not a charitable gift; it is only a partial recompense for benefits beyond measurement in terms of the dollars that are subscribed.

Fashions at the Capital

The Well-Dressed Woman of Smart Society,
What She Wears, the Time and the Place.

By Margaret Wade.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2. The best laid plans of men and women, Presidents and Kings, Cardinals and Ambassadors have "gang agley" with that same fatality Robert Burns has taught us to observe in the every day plans of mice and men.

Washington is to be sure entertaining royalty, but not on the well arranged schedule originated in the State Department and approved in Antwerp, which was to have made the coming of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium with the Crown Prince Leopold the opening event of the most brilliant season the American capital has ever known.

The illness of President Wilson who was to have gone to New York in person to meet the George Washington and her distinguished passengers, has not only changed the first of several very important visits from a time of great congratulation and lavish hospitality, to a formal exchange of official courtesies, but it has also extended the circle of anxiety over the entire official circle both foreign and domestic.

To eliminate the social attentions planned for the present as well as any future visitors of distinction, is to reduce the coming of these persons to a sight seeing tour with possibly some commercial advantage to the nations interested, but lacking in every way the cordial treatment accorded the President and Mrs. Wilson on their visit to Buckingham Palace, to the Quirinal and to the Royal Palace at Brussels, which most persons now regard as an unfortunate precedent.

There is naturally great disappointment in society as well as much sympathy for the President's family in the necessary change of plan, which is also in marked contrast with the first visit of the King when, as Prince Albert, he spent several months in touring America. In Washington his visit lasted just four days with three large dinner parties and supper at the Alibi Club. Prince Albert did not stay at the White House on that occasion but at the old Arlington Hotel just across the park, where with his suite of nearly two officers he was the nation's guest.

His dinner hosts were in addition to the President and Mrs. McKinley, who had a company of 60 to meet him, the Belgian Minister Count de Lichtervelde and Countess de Lichtervelde and the then Vice President and Mrs. Hobart. Following the dinner of 20 covers at the Vice President's residence, reception to some 400 guests each of whom was presented by name to the Prince who stood with his host's Captain, now Brigadier-General Charles L. McVay, U. S. M. C., making the introductions.

The Countess de Lichtervelde, a member of an old and distinguished Belgian family, was so loyal to her country that she had her gowns invariably from Brussels. Not only made by needlewomen of that country but of materials from Belgium and Flemish looms.

The gown in which she entertained her future King at dinner was of pale blue satin with court train and superb garniture of point lace on the bodice and forming the half length flowing sleeves. A gown of such distinction that it did not suffer by comparison with the Paris gowns surrounding it. And in that season Paris gowns were the rule rather than the exception in Washington society, both official and non-official.

As Prince Albert the King of today was most democratic, entering into the spirit of the people about with obvious interest and pleasure. At the White House he met all the young people of the Cabinet—Miss Frances Alger sitting next him at dinner—Mrs. McKinley, of course, being on the other side.

The former Miss Alger is now Mrs. Charles Pike of Chicago. Other young women in this historic company, all of whom have since married, were Miss Cecelia Miles, daughter of the Chief of Staff of the Army; the Misses McKenna, daughters of an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court; the Misses Evans, daughters of the then Commissioner of Pension; Miss Mary Barber, a niece of Mrs. McKinley; Miss "Texas" Bates, and Miss Daisy Lester, both debutantes of that brilliant season.

The Baroness de Cartier, wife of the present ambassador of Belgium, unlike his predecessor of 20 years ago, does not confine herself to Belgian-made gowns, as everything she wears has the unmistakable earmark of the Rue de la Paix.

At her first afternoon reception which was in compliment to Cardinal Mercier who preceded the royal visitors to Washington by a week, this latest addition to the diplomatic hostesses wore a wonderful Paris gown of gold lace over tulle and satin, the latter showing the close silhouette with fullness drawn into the hem in Turkish fashion with the golden drapery also following the suggestion of the Orient and much shorter on one side than the other.

Baroness de Cartier, who lived much in Paris as Mrs. Hamilton Wilks Carey, well known in the American colony of the French capital, also wears the dainty French shoe of the moment with very short vamp and high heels, consequently with the strap or ribbon about the ankle.

New American women wear French shoes even when importing other articles of apparel. The long vamp being as a rule much more graceful as well as more comfortable to the average American foot.

Even with White House entertaining abandoned for the season as may unfortunately be necessary, Washington is likely to see a great deal in dress with a great importation of smart frocks already disposed of to the socially inclined. Mme. Jussierand, wife of the French Ambassador, wore to the first dinner party of the season a gown evidently brought from Paris, as it was of the metal brocade returning to high favor. This is white and silver, with train, and the rather high drapery about the hips.

The Countess di Cellere, wife of the Ambassador from Italy, who has just returned from Newport, where she and the children of the family passed the late summer, also wore recently a dinner gown of the new brocade, but in white and gold.

One of the smartest of Belgian blue gowns ordered by a prominent nonofficial leader in anticipation of meeting the royal visitors is right from Paris to a Connecticut avenue salon that is rendering it unnecessary for Washingtonians to journey even as far as New York for smart costumes. This shows a very full round skirt with overdress, ending midway between knee and ankle. The overdress gathered at the normal waist line and joined to the kimono cut but gathered bodice, under a deep self-colored girde.

The neck is round and the sleeves short and slashed to the shoulders. Another gown in this same importation intended for wear at one of the next week's most important functions now indefinitely postponed, is a petunia velvet like the blue brocade showing great fullness in the skirt, but preserving the straight silhouette. This is heightened by a loose narrow panel of jet both front and back, with jet straps across the shoulders. A distinct note in the coming season will be the new rich color tones of evening gowns and millinery.

In the matter of wraps as well as dinner gowns all thought of economy has been thrown to the winds, with fur coats lined with metal brocade finding ready sale at $2000.00 and upwards.

Millinery, too, has come into its own from the viewpoint of the designer. The modest little toque or mushroom which was almost a uniform hat this time last year having gone the way of other wartime fashions.

Tailored suits continue severely plain and dark in color—the darker the better—but every suit is topped by a hat that is never plain and rarely dark. Vivid red hats are appearing at every hour of the day, semi-sport effects in felt for informal wear in town or at the country clubs, with wonderful creations in velvet, satin or tulle for afternoon wear.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT
By MRS. F. A. WALKER.
The Giant's Tower.

THE King and the young Prince sat on the terrace in the moonlight. Above them was the high peak of a snow-capped mountain and at their feet lay the beautiful valley from which the lights of a city gleamed. Far, far off was the tossing ocean.

Up on the mountain was a huge, white tower that shone in the light with a dozen windows out in its side. All about it was a bare waste down almost to the King's palace garden.

"My son," said the old King, sadly, "I am not long for this world, but before I die I would like to see this land free from the monster who is now destroying it. For a year that giant has lived in the tower and robbed all he met. How I would like to see him buried in the ruins of his own home."

"I will set out tomorrow," said the Prince, "and see if there is not some way we may get rid of him."

"It is useless," replied the King, "for he is too strong for us to harm and no one dare go near him."

Early the next morning the Prince set out alone to go to the tower in order to find out if there was not some way by which he could overcome the monster. About sunset he sat down by a spring and took out some bread for his supper. As he stopped to drink he noticed an ant trying to pull a bit of apple over a big pebble. So the kind Prince moved the pebble out of the path. Then he lay down to rest.

When the moon rose he noticed a fairy form sparkling in the light as it moved about on tiny gauze wings.

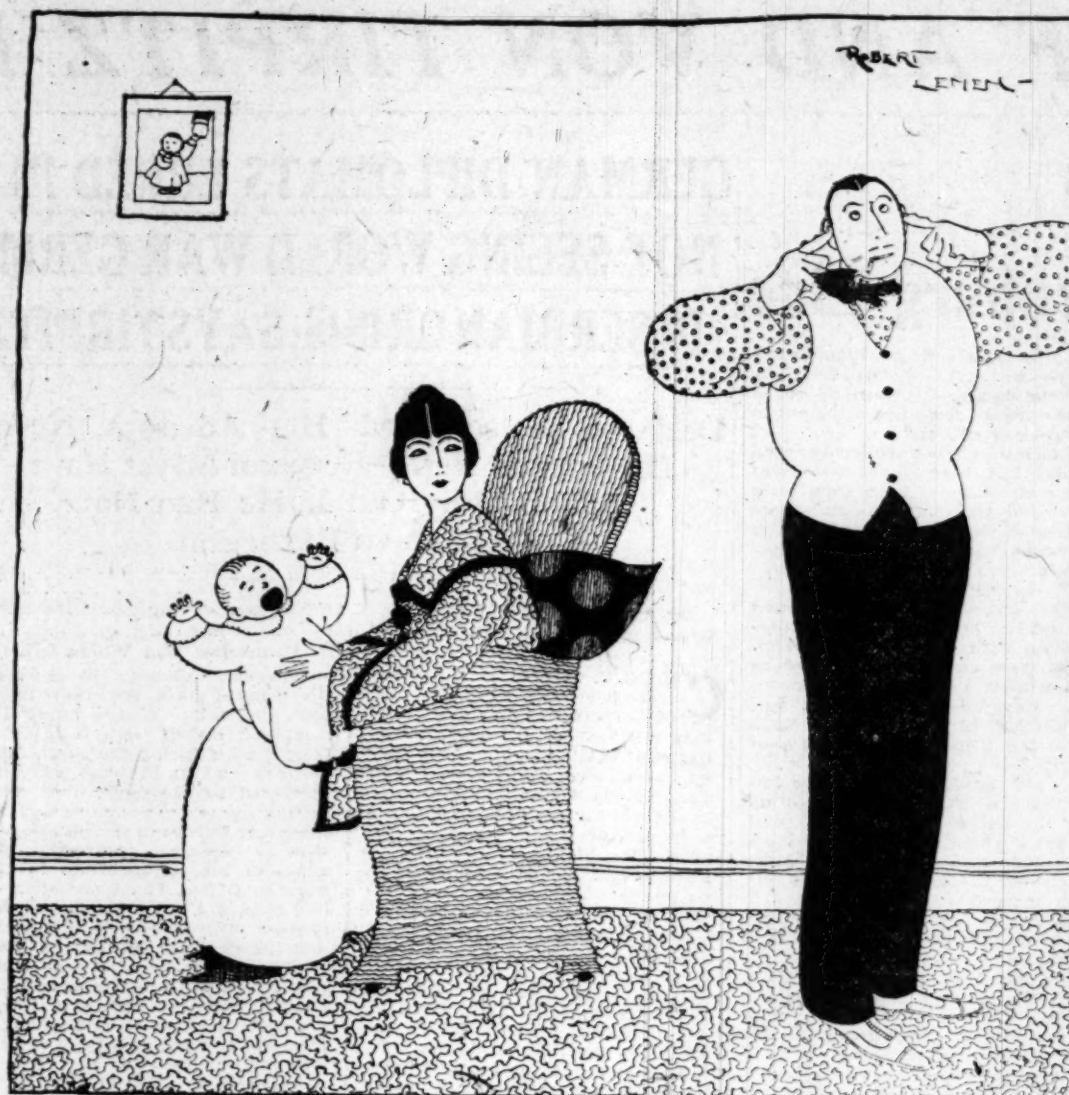

"I am the fairy of the forest," she said, "and I saw how good you were to the ant. Those ants are my best friends and I would like to reward you. Ask what you will."

"I have now but one wish, which is to destroy the giant who lives in that tower and rob my people," said the Prince. "If you can help me do that I will be the happiest person alive."

"That is a matter which you must leave to me," answered the sprite. "Go to sleep and by morning your wish will be fulfilled."

All night the Prince slept soundly; not a whisper disturbed him, and when at last at dawn he awoke he sprang to his feet in a hurry. In the dim light he saw still the great tower looming up in the mist with its row of shining windows. He

How Shall the Business Girl Plan Her Budget?

By MRS. CHRISTINE FREDERICK, Efficiency Expert.

IS the H. C. of L. affecting the business girl, and if so, what steps is she taking to combat its mounting figures? Does she, too, keep a "budget" just as a family does who tries to know where the money goes? If she doesn't keep a budget, she certainly should. For every individual person, just like a family, has these six divisions to meet "rent, food, clothing, operating, savings and advancement."

How shall she divide her salary among these items, for we are speaking now, not of a worker who supports part or all of a family, but who has only her own expenses to meet.

The cost of room and board will depend partly in what town or place she lives, as living is still cheaper in the small place than in a metropolis. Even in fact of current prices 20 per cent is what she should spend for rent, and between 25 and 30 per cent for food, including lunches. "But I live at home, and don't pay board," is the common remark of many girls in business. And unfortunately, this brings up the serious discussion of the girl who has thus no living to pay and who, then, most commonly spends excess on her clothes.

In one office known to me there are six educated and refined girls. Only one of them has to pay board or room at home, the others do not. But see what an unfairness this creates toward the one girl! Her salary is the same, but because she must bear the responsibility of her living, she is almost in poverty, while the same salary permits the other five to live in luxury unrelated to their earnings. It is a hard problem, and one that some employers take advantage of, using the fact that a girl lives at home, to ask her to work for less wages. But these girls who do not pay board at home, must do one thing—they must not spend so much on dress as to demoralize and tempt the girl who had to go it all "on her own."

There was Bliss, who spent, on an $18 income, the sum of $75 for a winter coat—but to Jane, who had to pay $12 for room and board, such an expenditure was all out of proportion.

It can be safely said that not more than 25 per cent of any salary should be spent on clothing alone, and the figure can be brought down lower if the girl cares for her clothes, if she makes some of them, and buys skillfully.

Every woman worker must save a minimum of 10 per cent of her earnings in cash. Many workers tell me they cannot do this, that they need about 20 per cent for "advancement," or books, theaters, toilet goods and sundries. But I repeat that every business woman or girl should save at least the 10 per cent on what she earns, and invest it in bonds, in an endowment insurance, in cash savings. She must do this to provide for the proverbial "rainy day," periods of ill health, etc.

And she may spend about 10 per cent on that big item of "advancement." One woman said she spent 2 per cent for books, magazines and papers; 1 per cent for toilet articles; 2 per cent for dentist, doctor and medicines; 2 per cent for dress, church, organization expenses, 3 per cent on amusement, music, theaters and luxuries. A pretty good, safe distribution!

If she wants a special vacation, then it must come out of money saved from some other expense, as less on dress or room. In many cases she can save much more than 10 per cent—but she should save this at least.

A budget for the business girl will prove that she, too, can know where every penny goes, a budget will help her save, help her to respect and training in financial matters. How can we think of her as a "business woman" if she shows no business management of her own pocketbook? (Copyright, 1919, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

In Belgian Congo a wife can be purchased for as low as 75 cents.

The Curious Quest

By E. Phillips Oppenheim.

CHAPTER IV. (Continued.)

"I FEEL so sorry for Mr. Masters," she went on softly. "He was only a workingman, and he saved the few hundred pounds he started with, week by week. He is so proud of his name and character. I think that it will break his heart if he has to fail, and there is no help for it that I can see."

"Five hundred stores in stock," Bliss murmured, "at 14 guineas. Why doesn't he sell some at a little less, just enough to pay this bill?" She nodded.

"He has tried to do that, although he hated it because he did not think it was fair business. He offered 200 today at actual cost to a firm, just to pay next week's bill. They declined. He is almost desperate about it."

"Great Caesar!" Bliss muttered. "And I have been kicking myself because I couldn't sell them at 14."

"That's a different thing altogether. You have been calling mostly upon retail people, and 14 guineas is a very fair price. To tell you the truth, I am surprised that you haven't sold any," she added, a little unfeelingly. "You seemed so very confident when you started."

He set his teeth. There was a look in his face which would have astonished Sir James Aldreyd.

"There are two days left," he reminded her grimly.

The door was thrown open, and Mr. Masters bustled in with his accustomed air of exuberant energy. He was humming a tune to himself, but his affected cheerfulness was a little overdone. "Ah! there you are, Bliss," he exclaimed. "Afraid I must remind you that your time is up Saturday. A month's trial, that was it, wasn't it?"

Bliss rose heavily to his feet. "Sorry I've been such a failure, sir," he said slowly. "I have got two more days, however, and it's occurred to me—well, I have had an idea and I sat here. Perhaps it isn't worth much, but I want to make one more effort tomorrow."

Mr. Masters was mildly curious.

"Going to try a new district?" he inquired. "You've got the whole field to yourself, you know, and the finest stove in the world to sell. It's just a question of getting at the right people."

"That's exactly what I feel myself, sir," Bliss assented thoughtfully. "By-the-by, if I wanted a stove to show a customer—"

"There's one in the packing case outside," Mr. Masters interrupted eagerly. "Tim hasn't gone yet. He can take it wherever you like. He hasn't had a stroke of work to do all day. Shall I tell him to put it on a truck?"

"Bliss burnt his boats. If you please," he answered valiantly.

Mr. Masters hurried out, shouting for the warehouseman. Already his step was more buoyant. The girl looked at Bliss almost reproachfully.

"Do you think it's quite fair to give him false hopes like that?" she demanded.

"There's no false hope about it," Bliss replied, taking up his hat. "I'm going to sell that stove and a dozen more like it before this time tomorrow night."

She looked at him searchingly. She was forced to admit that the Ernest Bliss of today was somehow a very different being from the young man who had sat in that chair a month ago, and in whom, at that time, she had felt no confidence whatever. There was a new ring in his voice. His mouth seemed to have become tenser, and his manner more determined. A little thrill of hope crept into her reply.

"Oh, if you only can!" Her eyes glowed. He was suddenly conscious of the birth of new powers within him. He felt like a Samson. "I shall," he asserted. "And what then?"

It was amazing to him that he had not realized her charm before. She flashed a wonderful smile upon him and sat down before her machine. "Well, we'll see!"

CHAPTER V.

BLISS, committed to an enterprise which he had as yet conceived, went off down the street with Tim, and the packing case following close behind. He walked rapidly at first, and without any precise idea of his destination. Tim, who had agreed to assist him, was beginning to feel somewhat aggrieved.

"How far might you be going, sir?" he cried out presently, pausing to wipe the perspiration from his forehead.

Bliss stopped short upon the pavement. "Sorry, I'd forgotten all about you," he said. "I have one or two calls to pay before I want the stove. No need for you to come with me. Look here! Do you know St. James' street?"

"Do you mean St. James' street right up the West End?" Tim demanded ruefully.

"That's the one. Can you find your way there without me?" Tim asked. "I can take your own time and wait for me outside No. 37—name of Broad-bent, house agents. I shall be there in less than an hour."

Tim wiped his forehead, and with a surprising lack of delicacy referred to the impossibility of getting to St. James' street without refreshment.

With a sigh Bliss thrust his hat into his trousers pocket and glanced at the contents.

He was possessed of 2 shillings and sixpence halfpenny, with nothing more to come until Saturday morning. He handed the sixpence halfpenny to the porter.

"Mind you're there," he enjoined. "It's important." (To Be Continued Tomorrow.) (Copyright, 1919.)

RUEHER PITCHES AND BAT REDS TO VICTORY OVER SOX

Form Goes All A'wry When Cincinnati Knocks Ciotte From Box and Wins First World's Series Game.

By John E. Wray.

Special Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—The late Eddie Joss was entirely right when he declared that pitching was 80 per cent of the old ball game. Nothing could more clearly have proved his contention than yesterday's world's series struggle here, the first of the nine-game guessing match, wherein two hurlers figured almost to the overshadowing of all other factors in the contest.

That the Cincinnati Reds won from the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 1, the largest margin of victory achieved in any opening contest in the history of modern world's series contests, can be directly traced to the potency of the south-paw hurling of Ruether, Pat Moran's star, and to the impotency of Manager Gleason's Chicago "ace," Eddie Ciotte. Ruether was at his best, which is about as good as any pitcher can be, while Ciotte never pitched a worse game in his life than yesterday, when he was clouted for seven safeties and six runs in three and two-thirds innings. His was one of the feeblest pitching efforts ever witnessed in a major league contest with a diamond star of the first water on the mound.

Ciotte, Gleason's ace, who took the record world's series beating yesterday, when asked the reason for his defeat, said as follows: "I haven't the slightest alibi for losing. They hit everything I pitched and there was nothing off color. I felt in fine shape, as good as ever in my life. But they 'crossed' me in every sort of manner. It's all in the game. I'll come back and win before the series is over. There is nothing the matter with my arm."

Ruether's work stands out as the scintillating feature of the contest. Not only did he pitch masterfully, but he hit like a Ty Cobb, making two triples, a single and drawing one base on balls the only times he faced the enemy hurler. It was his triple in the fourth inning that really broke the heart of Ciotte and put him on ice for the entire performance.

Chicago's One Run a Gift. Only three good, resounding thumps were made off Ruether's delivery, and the only run counted by the Sox against him was a gift of Kopf—a sheer donation.

In the last analysis of this game Ruether was absolutely the determining factor. His teammates were there strong and courageous enough to pounce on Ciotte in his hour of weakness. But it was Ruether who nullified the bats of the Sox, that fierce attacking strength manifested so often during the American League season just closed.

Failure of Double Play in Fourth Inning Caused Mighty Eddie Ciotte to Weaken

What happened has been variously accounted for. It is said that Ciotte's arm was not recovered from a stiff neck experienced following a contest of several weeks ago. It is also suggested that the "breaks of the game," especially the failure of a double play in the fourth inning broke the heart of Ciotte and caused him to weaken to a fatal degree. It is probable that no one of these was of itself the reason for the collapse of the leading hurler of both major leagues yesterday, but that all combined to bring about the downfall of the star.

Pitching Decided It. It is sufficient to say that the Sox lost because Ruether was a good pitcher, yesterday, and Ciotte was a bad one.

An analysis of the game develops that there was only one incident that might have been called the "break" of the day. This came in the fourth inning, when the score tied, one man out and Duncan on first via the safe-hit route. Kopf was up. He hit a bouncer to Ciotte, who pitched to second base, and turned to throw to second base. A double play was in his lap. Ruether was running toward second base, ready to step on the bag and retire the runner. But Ciotte made a fatal, but not a judgment, error of judgment. Instead of throwing the ball to the bag ahead of Ruether, saving a fraction of time, he played it safe. Ruether, who was at the bag and then tossed. The Sox second sacker made the catch, but stumbled over the bag, reaching the runner, but it is true, but getting the throw to first a trifle behind Kopf's step and missing the double killing.

The next play did not do anything to Ciotte's morale. Risberg, who throughout the day played a splendid defensive game, and Collins, who did not shine with his usual world's series brilliancy, were both late in starting for Neale's grounder over second. It meant for a hit when it might have been an out. In fact, Risberg retired a player later in the game on an even more difficult drive to the same place.

Risberg Blames Himself. What affect these two incidents had on Ciotte's nerves is indicated by the statement of one umpire to the writer that "Risberg was calling himself names for the rest of the game and blaming himself before his teammates for getting it up." Risberg, who did not blame himself. Had Ciotte been right the Reds would never have been able to take the liberties with his pitching that immediately followed the plays referred to.

If there was any one thing that broke the morale of Ciotte's more than another it was probably the resounding triple made by his enemy pitcher, Ruether, and scoring two runs, followed by the "break" mentioned above. That was the straw that broke the camel's back. Ciotte was done then. It led to his retirement later in the inning. Right here it may be mentioned that he did not pitch good ball at any stage of the game, being invariably behind the batter and forced to crucify himself by putting them over. The alibi merchants are going out of their way when they seek to attribute the Sox defeat to any other circumstance than the tremendous work of Ruether. It is an absolute truth that, but for his teammates' weaknesses, not a run would have been scored against him.

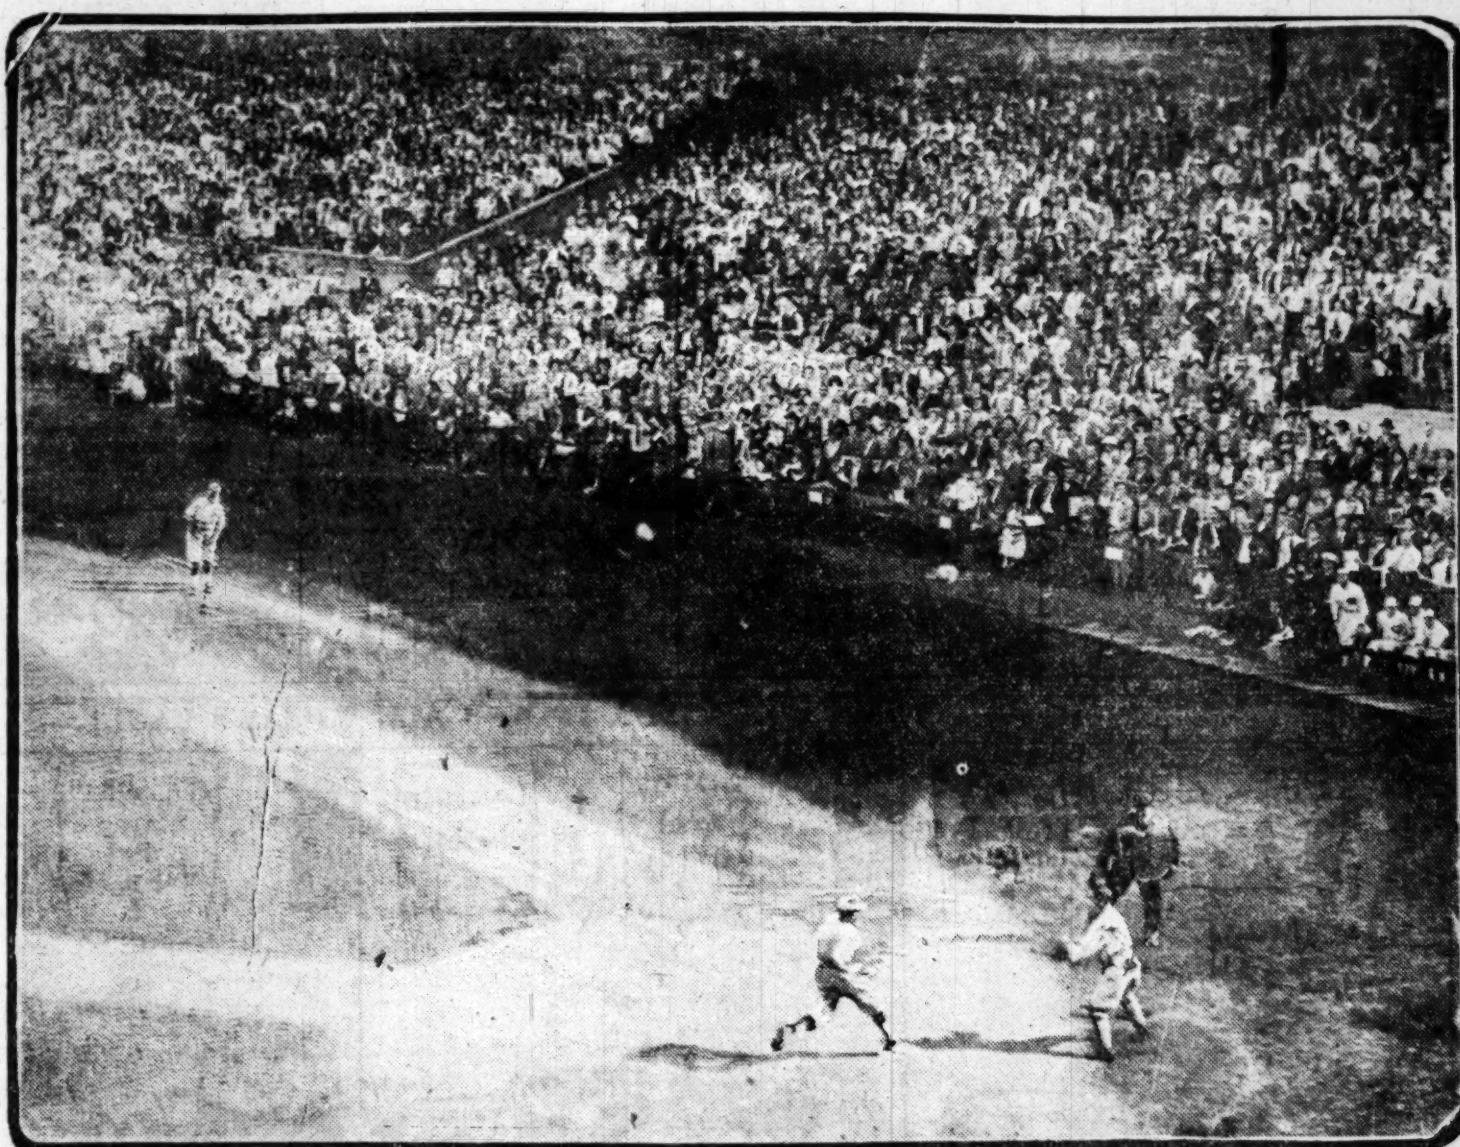

Ciotte Strong in Second. Ciotte appeared to come down to earth in the second and retired the Reds in order. But in the third Eddie was on the ropes, being wild and forced to lay them over. Two of the outs were hard-hit balls to the outfield and followed a base on balls and a sacrifice.

Then came the grand crash of the fourth with its six hits for a total of nine bases and five runs, all with the exception of one single, made after two men were down. For the rest of the game the Sox daubers were down. They fought on, but in only one inning did they succeed in connecting with two successive hits. Ruether stymied them effectively.

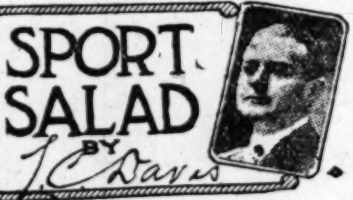

Battling on first, who relieved Ciotte, did not show much during his stay on the hill for the Sox, which lasted three and one-third innings. He yielded five hits and two runs, and gave way to make room for Pinch-hitter McMillin. Grover Cleveland Lowdermilk finally broke into a little more life and finished the game. He was wilder than the justly celebrated person from Borneo. He hit Jake Daubert, who walked in the back with one pitch that he knocked down the Reds' first sacker. Daubert was not badly hurt, however.

Snapshots at Opening Game of World's Series Yesterday

Walter (Dutch) Ruether, Reds' pitcher, scoring his run after rapping out triple that scored two mates in the fourth inning.

First Blood. I HEAR the Cincinnati Reds maltreated C. Comiskey's Sox. They stood them on their bloomin' heads. And knocked Ed Ciotte from the box.

With many safe and timely hits. The Cincinnati rocked the host; The Sox defense was torn to bits. And Brother Ciotte lost his goat. Dutch Ruether neatly turned the trick. By copping the initial game; And with his trusty little stick. He likewise neatly clinched the game.

And thus the boys of Pat Moran. Laid Mr. Gleason's warriors low. And every Cincinnati fan. Was heard to say: "I told you so."

Dope. Don't put a bet on the series until you find out what kind of iron tonie the players take before meals.

Trouble is you can't find out until after the series is over. The winners always use the right stuff.

Owing to the scarcity of dye stuffs and the high price of wool the dyed-in-the-wool fans have to cough up $6.60 for box seats.

Just as we predicted, the team that got the most runs copped the opening game. Gotta give it to the Velled Prophet.

See where "Over There" beat "War Kiss" by a lip the other day.

Too True. We have with us the merry season of the year when the American and National Leagues come pretty near crowding the league of nations off of the first page.

Mr. Gleason's Strategy Ran Amuck When Daubert Failed to Die When Hit in the Egg

BY KING W. LARDNER.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—Gents: Up to the eighth inning yesterday p. m. we was all setting there wondering what to write about and I happened to be looking at Jake Daubert's picture in the souvenir program and all of a sudden Jake fell over and I thought he was dead, so I said to the boys "Here is your story." Jacob E. Daubert was born in Shamokin, Penn., on the 17th of April, 1886, and lives in Schuylkill, Pa., and began playing with the Kane, Pa., club in 1907. With Cleveland in 1908 and Toledo for two years. Joined the Brooklyn club in 1910, and remained there until this season. Then joined the Cincinnati Reds and fell dead in the eighth inning of the first game of the world series.

So everybody got up and cheered me and said that was a very funny story, but all of a sudden again Jake stood up and looked at the different parts of the compass and walked to first base and wasn't dead at all and everybody turned around and hissed me for not giving them a good story. Well, Gents, I am not to blame because when a man has got a fast ball like Grover Lowdermilk and hits a man like Jake in the temple I generally always figure they are dead and the fact that Jake got up and walked to first base is certainly not my fault, and I hope nobody will hold it vs me.

Jake Gunned the Strategy. That was only one case where Mr. Gleason's strategy went amuck. His idea then was to kill the regular first baseman, and then all Mr. Moran would have left to do would be to either stick Dutch Ruether on first base, where he couldn't pitch, or else stick Sherwood Magee over there where he couldn't coach at third base. But Jake gunned it all up by not doing.

Well, another part of Mr. Gleason's strategy was dressing the White Sox in their home uniforms, so as they would think they were playing on the home grounds in front of a friendly crowd, but the trouble with that was that the Reds were also dressed in their home uniforms, so as you couldn't tell which club was at home and which wasn't, and it made both of them nervous.

Then to cap off the climax, Mr. Gleason goes and starts a pitcher that everybody thought he was going to start, which took away the element of surprise and made a joker out of the ball game. If he had only started Erskine Mayor or Bill James or any of the other boys that I recommended, why the Reds' breath would have been taken away, and even if they had hit they couldn't of ran out their hits.

The trouble with the White Sox yesterday was that they was in there trying to back up a nervous young pitcher that never faced a big crowd in a crunch before, and when he got scared and bowed why it was natural for the rest of them to also bow up. But just give these young Chicago boys a chance to get use to playing before a big crowd with money depending on it and you will be surprised at how they get on their feet and come back then.

Nobody should count to find fault with Manager Gleason, however, for what happened yesterday. As soon as it was decided that they would have nine games in this series, why the kid set down and figured that the rules called for nine men on a side and if one Red was killed per day and the serious run the full nine games, why they would only be one man left to play the final game and one man can't very well win a ball game even vs the White Sox the way they looked. But Daubert didn't die as expected, and they will know better next time than to hit a left-handed first baseman in the arm.

More Strategy Is Gunned. As for the game itself they has probably never been a thriller game in a big series. The big thrill came in the 4th inning when everybody was wondering if the Sox would ever get the 3rd man out. They finally did and several occupants of the press stand was overcome. The White Sox only came at the pt was to keep the Reds in there hitting until darkness fell and made it a illegal game but Heine Groh finally hit a ball that Felch could not help from catching and gunned up another piece of strategy.

Before the game a band led by John Philip Sousa played a catchy air called the Stars and Stripes Forever and it looks to be like everybody would be whistling it before the serious runs a dozen more games.

It no longer looks like the present series would be a big surprise after another and today's shock will occur when the battery's is announced

Hard to Tell Whether Smelling Salts, Ice or Dirty Towels Won Game for Hurler Ruether

Teammates Apply Desperate Remedies to Resuscitate Boy Wonder, Who Almost Wears Himself Out Running Around Bases.—Lady Fish Gives Ray Fisher Only Bouquet of Series.

By Charles Dryden.

Dear Old Cincy, Oct. 2.—In the first bout of the big series here yesterday Dutch Ruether, the boy wonder, trampled on Ed Ciotte, the waiving veteran, 9 to 1. If the White Sox had not absent-mindedly scored a run in the second round it would look like a forfeited game.

The Reds hopped forth and simply massacred Ciotte, and two others rushed to the front to check the assault. Nothing doing. The noble Reds clawed the trio of Sox slabbers for 14 blows for a total of 21 bases. Ruether himself busted up the show in the fourth with a triple that tallied two runs. The boy wonder clouted two triples and Jake Daubert surprised the gaping fish with three wallops, one for three bases.

Ciotte was shattered by a depth bomb dropped on him in the fourth. The count was tied at one all when the round opened and when it closed the Reds had added six blows and five runs to their string. Ciotte was gone before the inning was ended. Wilkenson yielded five hits and two runs in three frames and was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Here, where Grover Lowdermilk uncoiled his sinuous length from the coop and sat in for one inning. Ruether batted him for one triple and Daubert was laid out with a wallop on the dome. That served Jake right for upsetting the dope and making three hits in a series game. He should know better next time.

Reds Open Attack Early. Merely to prove they had the pump, the Reds put over a tally in the first round. Rath got hit in the neck hard enough to clear it for the rest of the afternoon. Daubert came through with a single that moved Rath to third. Up stepped Heine Groh, carrying a bat wound with tape like the legs of a Tyrolean waltzer. Bats of this type are very dangerous in a world's series. Anyway, Heine banged a sacrifice fly to Joe Jackson and Rath scored after the catch.

The Sox tied in the second, but it wasn't Ruether's fault. Jackson hit to Kopf, who first fumbled the pill and waved it among the fish back of first base. Jackson went to second under the ground rules. Felch sacrificed. Gandil boosted a Texas leaguer to slugging status. It was possible for Kopf or Rath to take the catch, but they hung back and let Roush gallop in from the suburbs. He arrived too late to catch the ends of his fingers and went for a hit, Jackson scoring.

The dropping of the depth bomb in the fourth was a thrilling scene. Before the echoes died away the surface of the field was strewn with wreckage and splinters of oil. Roush opened with an out to center. Duncan singled and Kopf forced him. With two out the Sox had no hunch that what was coming. Neale's single and Kopf counted. Ruether tripled to center. Two more runs. Rath doubled into the overflew back of third ending Ruether's career. Daubert tallied Rath with a single. Wilkenson arrived and Groh ended the round with a fly to center.

Sale, Ice and Dirty Towels. As soon as Ruether counted in this round his seconds gave him the Wilkenson minutes before play time a nut in an airplane flew over the park and dumped a bale of distressing materials that came down and cluttered up the diamond. Out hopped a flock of little scavengers, who always get in for nothing, and picked up the junk.

Contrary to expectations, the four umpires did very little pointing. Messers. Rigler, Evans, Quigley and Nallin blazed forth in new raiment, which shone blue in the bright sunlight. In the center of the circular press coop sat an expert with a large card on a pole. One side of the card denoted "hit" and the other "error." In the center of the card was displayed so that one end of the coop registered a hit and the other an error.

While Ruether was on third base in the eighth a passed ball rolled to the stand. Schalk hustled for the ball and slammed to the pitcher, covering the plate. Ruether was still at third with his manly heel spiked to the bag. Pat Moran was there and he wasn't going to let the Sox score. He galloped his life out for a tally not needed. Besides, the smelling salts and lumps of ice were about used up.

While the athletes are gathered at the plate before the start the band played the national anthem. Mr. Rigler, Mr. Gleason and Mr. Rath displayed their knobby knees and cool compared to their sun-burned features.

Though the Reds treated them rough, the White Sox are calmed down. They will appear for the second game today and no doubt "Lefty" Claude Williams will show them something.

Ray Fisher was kept warmed up on the side line after the fourth. The only other Sox player who was far was slipped to Ray by a lady fish.

Beck Will Assist Women Golfers in Coach Rutherford Semifinal Round

Gordon Beck, Nebraska University,

yesterday was named assistant coach of Washington University, and will take charge of the large freshman squad at the Pikeaway School. Beck replaces Eber Simpson, who resigned. Beck played at Nebraska on the college eleven with Dick Rutherford, the Pickers' mentor.

Fred Potthoff failed to appear for the workout yesterday, but Roy Milam, who was out of the team yesterday's work consisted of tackling and running back punts.

St. Rutherford of the St. Louis University team was all smiles yesterday. Reason, 21 huskies appeared for the workout, and gave the coach his first full squad of the campaign.

Among the players who reported was Bill Gallagher, a husky end. Father Hermann announced yesterday that a game with the Alumni would probably be held for Saturday.

The Jarr Family

By Roy L. McCardell.

Copyright, 1919, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World).
Mr. Jarr Finds That "The Least Said, Soonest Mended," Applies to a Lot of Darn Things.

"A S Shakespeare said: 'What fools these women be!'—looking up from his evening paper. Mrs. Jarr looked up, too, not from an evening paper, but from a stocking that she was darned at too, heel, side and knee, also at the top where the clasp of her supporters' l-d worn holes. There is no place about a stocking a child can't put a hole through."

"But if Mr. Jarr expected her to take issue with him on the misquotation he was mistaken. 'You never said a truer word,' she replied calmly. 'Mr. Jarr breathed easier. He had regretted his misquotation the moment he had blurted it out. Too many times he had made a remark in general only to have his good lady take it upon herself as a personal affront. 'I just mean some women, you know, my dear,' he hedged. 'Make it inclusive, to mean all women,' said Mrs. Jarr. 'They would rather be married badly than not at all. They are more unhappy as care-free and self-supporting old maids than as careworn and unsupported wives.' 'I hope you do not class yourself with the careworn and unhappy,' said Mr. Jarr. 'I'm not classing myself as anything,' said Mrs. Jarr, holding up a stocking to see if there was as much fabric left as holes that had been put in it. 'Look at me! After putting in an unpaid union day and overtime at housework, I'm darned the children's stockings. You're through your work when you leave your office. How would you like to come home and darn stockings—children's stockings—your stockings—my stockings? That's only one part of a woman's never-ending work.' Mr. Jarr was going to make some remark about women being able to leave off housework ever and anon and go downtown during union hours for the recreation of shopping. But he feared being asked how he would like to do the shopping, and if he would deem it recreation. So he only hedged. 'Yes, household cares are unending, I know. But what prompted my remark was this picture of women wearing housework trousers-ettes.' 'In war work in factories, or as farmettes women wear those things,' replied Mrs. Jarr. 'But in housework no. Any old thing will do for housework, so I do not think any woman is buying any sort of costumes for that.' 'But they say that they are gaining, you know, that women will wear them—before long,' Mr. Jarr persisted. Women wear trousers horseback riding and as nighties now—and they say—' 'THEY say? Who are 'they'?' asked Mrs. Jarr. 'Would-be humorists, alleged comic artists, silly writers for still more silly readers.' 'But you know women did take up the hobble skirt,' said Mr. Jarr, 'and look at the silly narrow ones they are wearing now.' 'The narrow skirts are graceful and severe—Grecian and artistic in their outlines,' replied Mrs. Jarr. 'There are always freaks who carry advanced styles to extremes. But did the women take up the crinoline that all the silly fashion writers said was coming back several years ago? Did the bustle come back?' 'But they may come back—all these things do. Fashions repeat themselves, don't they?' persisted Mr. Jarr. 'A fashion never comes back when a fashion is proven hideous,' said Mrs. Jarr. 'But don't say a word about women. Men have hideous styles and follow them slavishly, too. Look at the plush hats and the hairy hats they are wearing now! Look at the princess-freak belted, slant-pocket coats; me are wearing! Look at the photographs of men taken some years ago and you'll see they are dressed as freakily and hideously as the women. The age of common sense in clothes does not, nor ever did, belong to men alone. 'I suppose you are right,' replied Mr. Jarr, glad to get off so easy. 'Of course I am right,' said Mrs. Jarr. 'Men are very squeamish about women, aren't they? Men have smoked for centuries, but most of them say women mustn't. Men have voted for years, but a lot of them tried to keep the ballot from women. Men have worn trousers since the ugly things were first invented, and women mustn't. But women will do anything they please from now on if it is convenient. Girls wear bloomers in gymnasiums and nothing is said about it. They wear riding trousers when on horseback, and I've heard you commend them and say they looked better and were certainly more suited for horseback riding than the hideous, long riding skirt that women wore because convention compelled them to sit on a horse cross-legged.' 'But you wouldn't wear harem trousers in the streets, would you?' asked Mr. Jarr. 'Wait till they're really the fashion for street attire and see!' replied Mrs. Jarr. 'But, then, maybe if they were in style I couldn't afford them.' And then Mr. Jarr said 'Darn!' And Mrs. Jarr, but not to obey him, darned.
